the hundreds of Princetonians of all ages who over this Holiday Season opened their hearts to others in contributing more than $4,025 to the 24th annual TOWN TOPICS Christmas Appeal. As we move forward into the new year, in a sorely-troubled world which is still beset by war and poverty, it is reassuring to know that Princetonians over nearly a quarter of a century have now given some $75,800 so that thoughtful and specialized assistance can be extended to those seeking understanding and those yearning for a needed sense of belonging.

For their selfless generosity at a time when charitable thoughts are constantly buffeted by the chill winds of inflation; for taking to heart their community's human needs; for refusing to permit others less fortunate than themselves to remain in the shadows of despair, where tomorrow is all too often another cold, cheerless day; these perceptive neighbors of ours are our nominees as Princeton's

This Is Princeton

Want It Back Again? If 1970 was the year you got married, had your first child, landed your first job, got out of the Army whole or maybe bought a winning New Jersey lottery ticket, you might want to repeat the year.

Otherwise, forget it. 1970, in Princeton, was a year of turmoil and growing pains. Some turmoil was home grown, some was a reflection of national agonies.

Growing town? Preliminary 1970 census figures show Princeton Township a fat 30% bigger than it was ten years ago. Census figures give the Borough a 1% increase to 11,981 compared to the Township's 13,541. The Township had only 10,411 in 1960.

School Bells Ring. Schools made most of the waves in Princeton during 1970. Compared to other suburban communities, Princeton has a school situation which is almost tranquil, but nobody living here would call Princeton tranquil in 1970.

Personalities? The controversy swirled particularly around Philip McPherson, the young superintendent who came here three years ago.

Issues? Should the school board make policy only and leave housekeeping to the administrators? Or should the board take a more active part in day-to-day running of the schools?

Issues? Traditional courses or innovations?

And perhaps the basic issue: in a community of intelligent parents and students, how does an intelligent school board handle an intelligent and independent superintendent with a mind of his own?

General issues boiled up in specific crises during the year. 1970 began without a high school principal and went six months without one. Finally in June, the school board voted 7-2, to make Miss Florence Burke principal of Princeton High School. Acting Principal, she found herself in the middle of a tug, literally, of war.

Parents who wanted traditional structure petitioned to have her made principal. Superintendent McPherson, who wanted the big, complex school run by a team, openly opposed her selection. Both, however, publicly promised mutual support at several occasions during 1970.

Strike Came in May. Tensions exploding in the Cambodian invasion led to the Princeton High School strike.

1970 BRINGS INN TO A CLOSE: The Princeton Inn was closed in June and is now a Princeton University dormitory. Just one of the events of 1970 as reported, without much nostalgia, in this issue of Town Topics.

Students have made it very clear that this is not a strike against PHS or a strike to close down the school. It is a strike to express their deep concern over the national crisis," declared Principal Burke.

Students voted 1,007 to 537 in favor of a strike. Students planned and held several workshops on issues related to Cambodia, and some board members said it was the first time many students had been "turned on" by national events.

Faculty and students were asked to elect committees to develop strike proposals and did so. However, parents were urging the board to end the strike and finally the board lowered the boom.

Another blow-up brightened the sky in the autumn as Princeton reacted with distressed surprise to administrators' raises — $5-6000 a year in a few cases.

Explanations that the money is already in the budget and that jarring adjustments won't happen again did not lull citizens already unhappy over their schools.

Happier news came with board approval of a "bubble" gym to be blown up — in a nice way, of course — for the use of Middle School students.

Another happy development was an Open Forum that met during the summer, allowing students, parents and teachers a chance to air divergent views.

Long range, the big 1970 news was the Long Range Planning report prepared by a group of Princeton citizens. In it, one member Alden Dunham, says the "creative tension" of Princeton's school battle may have a long range benefit.

"Tower" Falls. Skirmishes around an 11 story Tower kept people busy when they weren't fighting about the schools. Residents' protests that Mt. Lucas Road is too country style and the hilly area too undrainable for an 11 story building brought The Tower down to three three story units re-christened North Square at Princeton.

Which goes to show what Princetn's governing bodies already know: that citizen protest can and does bring about change.

North Square, rejected by the one-year old Regional Planning Board, will be up for appeal before Township Committee and is already earmarked for newsmaking in 1971.

Residents in the Borough succeeded in defeating a proposal to turn 19 Vandeventer ("Beatty House") into law offices. Residents who wanted to stop a Harrison-Hamilton 76 unit condominium, however, didn't have as much luck, the courts gave the Borough and the developer the victory.

University Proposes. Waiting on the 1971 agenda is Princeton University's proposal to rebuild the foot of University Place with a new University Store, apartments, small business, shops . . . .

Moving uptown, the University suggested to the Borough a redesign of the Mercer Stockton-Bayard Nassau - University nerve center to form a "Town Square." Swords ready everybody?

Princeton University made news again when it did indeed close the Princeton Inn in June, to make it into a co-ed dormitory. The town mourned.

A town-gown symposium in March drew 300 people who tried to make a bridge across Nassau Street from Nassau Hall to the wider community. In June, symbolically, the University opened its big gates to the town for the first time. Two months later, after dark use of the campus was curtailed because drug use and, mugings had alarmed University officials and town police. Promptly several students challenged the curfew and eight were arrested.

Institutional. Other institutions appeared in the news columns. The United States Post Office brought peace to an old Princeton battlefield by announcing in March that it wouldn't build a new post office anywhere in town without complete agreement by both governing bodies.

The Township, defeated when the state Supreme Court refused to review a lower court decision favoring Thanel, the developer that wanted to build a North Harrison Street post office, was girding its arguments for a request all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court when the Federal post office made its decision.

In September, Princeton's main post office took up residence in West Windsor.

All Aboard! The Penn Central, shaky but still an "institution" in Princeton, thought it could change the name of the Princeton Junction station to "Princeton". Embarrassed Penn Central officials finally backed down in the face of Princeton wrath.

But commuters fought the real battle with P.C. "See you on the 7:52 Monday on one of the rear cars. Bring your bud dies . . ." read the summons.

The Committee for 100 Princeton Commuters planned to withhold fares until the railroad came up with acceptable long-range plans. There was even talk of a suit. Hasty meetings were held and the strike was called off. (Is service any better?)

Park — Where? That other commuter the driver who tries to get through town, had troubles, too. Parking fines went up from $2 to $4 May 1. Ridiculous, because where could you park, anyway? Parking garages were as far off as they were in 1960.

A traffic survey showed that 85% of Princeton's traffic starts right here and ends right here. Only 15% use Princeton as a corridor.

The Township battled the Shopping Center and the state, hopping for a safe Harrison Valley intersection (with maybe, a traffic light?) and pressuring the Center for safe ways through the blacktop.

Center mailboxes were removed, eliminating the bottleneck of the housewife who pauses in her car to mail her bills.

Route 206 isn't one inch wider at the end of 1970, although Township and state have discussed widening, and a Ewing jog handle intersection for safety

The year began with concern between the county and Princeton's two mayors on bus service to and within. Princeton. Seen any bus stops lately?

The year is ending with the state breathing smokily down Princeton's neck about that incinerator.

Princeton Reflects. The anguish of a troubled nation was felt in Princeton in 1970. University students staged a six day demonstration in May at the Institute for Defense Analysis building, leased from Princeton University by IDA. Court orders finally chased them off.

Borough police were commended by town officials for their "highly professional attitude" at IDA and Chief Peter J. McGrohan said, "We are grow and swallowed our pride to avoid violence."

The IDA demonstration "polarized opinion instead of getting on with the real business of marshalling opinion against the war," declared University President Robert F. Goheen. "People in Princeton are fed up with and angry at Princeton students for all this." Negotiations are under way for an IDA move by 1972.

War. The town reacted instantly to President Nixon's announcement April 30 that troops had moved into Cambodia: 2,300 gathered in the University Chapel immediately after his speech. 5,000 in Jadwin cage the next Monday.

"Stop the World for Peace" didn't stop the world exactly on May 27, but it was a [illegible]-based concept designed "to support the kids," as its sponsor said.

After sharply partisan exchanges Borough Council and Township Committee passed resolutions protesting President Nixon's action. In the end, the Township vote was a unanimous one.

At a Service of Agony and Intercession, sponsored by pastors, 250 gathered before Borough Hall to hear Dr. Goheen and ministers.

Drugs. Drugs were another national problem reflected here. In mid-November, two adults and seven juveniles were arrested by Borough police in a drug "shooting gallery." It was the biggest arrest involving only students.

New Jersey passed a law requiring drug education in the schools. The two Princetons and the United Fund each contributed $10,000 toward "291 Witherspoon", a Child Guidance center where kids and parents can meet the drug challenge.

Specialists said Princeton youngsters 11 and 12 were turning to drugs. . . five and six kids a week reportedly were entering treatment centers. . .the use of heroin is "definitely on the increase," police said flatly.

To combat all this, Princeton's Presbyterian Commission, backed by Princeton Rotary funds, hired Bill Kight as a "street minister."

Kids. The town seemed to find ways of meeting young needs: the University allowed kids to use Jadwin Gym. . . the Princeton Youth Center was remodeled with community funds into a Black Arts Center.

Minorities found a larger place in Princeton life. Jimmy Pittman became Princeton's first black fireman, elected to Mercer Engine Number Three. Women, after a February sit-in, are now allowed in the Nassau Inn's Yankee Doodle Tap Room. Local ordinances against housing discrimination were passed, to buttress state law, and Princeton's real estate agents formed a committee to work against discriminatory practices.

Projects. Princeton's swimming pool continued to overflow with happy swimmers in the summer. A $320,000 Phase I plan for developing the north side of Route 206, with picnic grounds and pond ran against the familiar road block: no money.

THAT TOWER! It's "North Square" now, but last summer it was an 11-story office "Tower". Mt. Lucas Road neighbors' protests helped topple it to three-story size, and it's still in the news.

School Board Elections Postponed by Delay in Census Figures

Princeton voters won't elect school board members until 60 days after Governor William Cahill announces the final 1970 census figures.

The school budget, however, will still be up for public vote on Tuesday, February 2.

That school board vote could come in mid-March at the earliest because some optimists hope the final census tally will be ready by January 15. More realistic estimates suggest however that the Governor's announcement won't come until the end of January, at least.

Deadline for candidates who want to fde for the school board will be 20 days after the Governor's proclamation.

Meanwhile, one new Township candidate, the Rev. C. George Fitzgerald, 280 Jefferson Road, has announced himself. One Borough resident filed a petition and then discovered a technicality in his residence requirement that won't allow him to be a candidate unless the Governor's census statement comes so late that the filing deadline is May 1.

Dr. I. Andrew Shelpuk, 60 Scott Lane, moved to that address on May 1, 1969, from a Jefferson Road house only half a block over the line into the Township. Candidates for a school board in New Jersey must live in the municipality they represent for two years. Dr. Shelpuk's candidacy therefore, hinges on the date of the Governor's promulgation.

So far, three candidates seek the one Borough seat: Jeremiah Ford III, Mrs. Hannah Fox and Dr. Shelpuk. Three also seek the pair of Township seats: incumbent William Marvel, T.C. Allen and the Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald.

The postponed school board election resulted from a series of events last week. On Tuesday, December 22, the Princeton board, in a unanimous vote, directed its counsel, Thomas Cook, to ask Superior Court Judge Frank J. Kingfield to rule that the Kingfield decision requiring reapportionment of the East Windsor district in time for the February elections apply to Princeton, too.

Mr. Cook met the next day with Judge Kingfield. The judge said yes, Princeton did come in under that ruling. But he went farther and ruled that all regional districts in the state postpone school board elections until 60 days after the Governor's promulgation of official census figures. If the Governor can't act before January 30, the Commissioner of Education must ask the court what to do next.

After the Governor's action, Mercer County Superintendent of Schools Edward Callahan will officially re-apportion the districts. Princeton Borough will lose one seat, the Township will gain one.

Without re-apportionment in time for this year's school board elections, Princeton Borough wouldn't have been able to vote for any candidate at all in elections the following year, 1972.

The second election will cost Princeton about $3,600 more. William Evans, school board secretary estimates. Money will come from about $200,000 in surplus, he said. The board has squirreled away this sum to ease the loss of half a million in sending district tuition when West Windsor-Plainsboro withdraw completely from Princeton High.

Other Regions. Things aren't quite so clear in the Hopewell Valley Regional District, composed of Hopewell Township, Hopewell Borough and Pennington. Preliminary census figures do not indicate clearly whether one of the nine seats will go to Hopewell Township or to Pennington.

Three Hopewell Township candidates have filed: Thomas Seessel, Jack Illeson and Richard Magetic; Donald McCoy, incumbent, has filed from Hopewell Borough; Albert Serling and William Abey have filed from Pennington.

West Windsor-Plainsboro regional candidates are unopposed so far. Richard S. Sneideker of Grovers Mill and Robert W. Prigge, Princeton Junction, are both incumbents. Other candidates for the four seats are William R. Watt and Mrs. Terry Gurin, both of Princeton Junction.

MISS McCLOSKEY DIES in Chestnut Street Fire. Miss Rose V. McCloskey, 69, who lived alone in her home at 17 Chestnut Street, perished in a fire that was first discovered in the two-story building at 11:45 Monday night.

Carried out of the smoke-filled home, she was given artificial respiration and emergency oxygen on the front porch by members of the TRAFFIC ON NASSAU? Yes, but this time it's pedestrians having a wonderful Sunday afternoon. Princeton celebrated Earth Day by closing off the main thoroughfare and opening it to strollers, musicians, kids on tricycles, undergraduates passing around flowers.

Princeton as a whole did not feel the nation's economic punch severely. On New Year's Eve, 1969, Renwick's restaurant closed forever. But Lo Vake the jeweler expanded in to the area.

A new shopping court began at 360 Nassau, and Princeton Savings and Loan moved to big new quarters. Applegate's Flowers was sold to a new owner. Harry Ballot's men's clothing store celebrated 40 years, and Gondime Charley's restaurant celebrated its first year by opening Charley's Brother. Marsh's 112 year old pharmacy was taken over by the great-grandson of its founder.

In both Princetons, Democrats came to power — for the first time ever in the Township and for the first time with a strong majority in the Borough.

A new mayor, Republican Robert W. Crawley, took office in Borough Hall on New Year's Day and will find himself this New Year's Day with only one Republican colleague on the six member Council.

People. Other people made news in 1970: Novelist John O'Hara died in April. Police Chief McCrohan celebrated 35 years on the Borough force. Police Chief James Campbell retired from the Township force, and will be replaced by Lt. Fred Porter, who becomes Princeton's first black police chief.

And on the other side of the ledger, Simone B. DeCa Valcante, 1015 Mercer Road, was convicted on three charges of extortion and conspiracy and sentenced to 15 years. He has often been called the "Boss of Cosa Nostra in New Jersey."

The biggest fire, newswise, anyway, was the Princeton High School fire on February 5. Many precious false alarms, an old building and a complicated wiring system compounded the difficulties.

Strike Affects Sports. The student strike," precipitated by the spread of the Indochina war to Cambodia proved to be 1970's principal sports story at Princeton University as numerous spring athletic contests were forfeited and some teams disbanded before completion of their schedule. The passage of summer, however, brought a return to normalcy and fall activities were carried through without incident.

Coach Jake McCandless found that the second year can be more difficult than the first, as his football team dropped from a 1969 first-place tie in the Ivy League to a second division finish. The lone championship was recorded in wrestling, the biggest single honor came to catcher Arnie Holtberg, who achieved All American status in baseball and later signed for what proved to be brief action in the New York Yankee farm system.

Biggest news at the scholastic level was made by the Hun football team, which finished 8-0 for its fourth season without a defeat. Princeton High School's basketball team reached the state tournament for the first time in several years, while the tennis team won the Southern New Jersey Group IV championship, compiling a fine 14-2 mark.

Princeton Day School's football team made news when it won five games in a row, several of them with come-from-behind rallies. The Panthers had a very satisfactory 5-2-1 record, achieved largely against schools with many more boys in their enrollment.

Fun. On the lighter side, Princeton theatre-goers continued to watch repertory at McCarter, but learned this fall that repertory will take a holiday in 1971-72. Last New Year's Eve you saw "Take the Money and Run" at the Princeton Playhouse.

A vital undergraduate theatre, Intime played Brecht's "Threepenny Opera" and Mozart's "Abduction from the Seraglio" and offered stimulating summer theatre including a rare Tennessee Williams.

Harambee House, the black group of college students continued to offer provocative theatre. At the Youth Center, plays like "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men" and "Simply Heavenly" made black theatre a community experience.

What's ahead for 1971? Contention, most likely. Will the Weller Tract be part of an expanded Battlefield Park?, proponents and opponents will be up in arms about that one.

Princeton Community Housing got seed money from the state in August and may break Township ground in '71.

The two boards of health said "no" to merger, but new public officials may open the question again.

If weather gets stormy, just remember that nobody argues any more about dogs. . . fluoridation. . . . merging the schools. Maybe "progress" isn't just a word!

Wallace as Mayor: A Few Regrets but Many Accomplishments

"Mayor Wallace has done an outstanding job," said the man who ought to know, Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini, as John D. Wallace prepared to move out of the Township mayor's chair he has occupied for two years and into the seat of a Township Committeeman.

The change-over is due at 11 a.m. New Year's Day when the "old" Committee goes out of office and the "new" one takes over. With the election of Democrat Jay Bleiman to Committee in November, the Democrats achieved a three-two majority on Committee.

This means they elect the chairman, who thereby becomes mayor. It is expected that Committeeman James A. Floyd will be chosen mayor. Mr. Wallace, however, will remain on Committee, serving the third year of his second three-year term.

"We've accomplished a great deal together," observed Mayor Wallace Monday afternoon at the usual year-end Committee meeting when stubs of business are finished off, and he gave his thanks to the Township staff, the road crews, the police and everyone else with whom he has worked, both as committeeman and as mayor.

Later, Mr. Nini talked about the mayor.

"He's done an outstanding job, he's worked extremely hard and he has been tremendously responsive to all segments of the community," the Administrator said.

"No problem has ever been unimportant to him," Mr. Nini continued. He described how the mayor insisted on replying personally to letters addressed to him, instead of delegating the reply to staff. "No matter what the comments or suggestions — or complaints! — he always felt they were valid and deserved attention."

Mayor Wallace is a vice-president of New Jersey National Bank with an office in Trenton. Every day, Mr. Nini said, he has checked in by telephone asking "what's new?" and keeping the Administrator informed. In spite of his full-time Trenton job, he has always been available during working hours.

"I've certainly enjoyed working with him, and the whole staff in Township Hall holds him in very high regard" Mr. Nini said. "I think he himself has enjoyed the mayor's job: he's a very dedicated man."

Evaluating the year at a late December press conference, Mayor Wallace cited areas where he thinks progress has been made.

"We've made some progress on drugs through the Child Guidance program and we hope for a drug study report early in January from the Youth Concerns Committee. . .

"We've enlarged police department space and brought in new equipment and we've set up a new Traffic Safety Department with a full-time officer. . .

"We've extended site plan review indefinitely, and we have a highly successful regional planning board and the Borough is getting used to some of our Township problems and we have the joint bike path — sidewalk master plan coming up soon. . .

"We're prepared to ordinance our part in the Stony Brook Millstone regional sewer system: the long range benefits of that system outweigh any surface inequities I think the Township is the first of the participating municipalities to announce it will be ready to move. . .

"We've got the new Township-Rocky Hill - Montgomery sewer, which allows us to extend the Mt. Lucas Road sewer. . .

"We've made some progress on housing, and maybe middle-income - low-income housing will be before the Planning Board early in the year. . . ."

Regrets?

"I'm disappointed that we didn't achieve merger of Borough and Township Boards of Health, but it's important that we continue to try. It makes so much more sense!

". . . and I wish we could have solved the Shopping Center traffic tangle."

Since all he's really doing is moving over, Jack Wallace will still be present in 1971 to help turn regrets into accomplishments.

Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. She was transported by ambulance to Princeton Hospital where she was pronounced dead at 12:10. Doctors reported that she died from smoke inhalation.

Borough police said that the cause of the fire has not been determined. Prime suspects, however are the furnace in the cellar which may have overheated, or a defective chimney. The chimney had no flue police said. The County Fire Marshall, called whenever there is a fire fatality, was at the scene Tuesday morning conducting his own investigation into the cause of the blaze.

Miss McCloskey, a lifelong resident of Princeton, was the daughter of the late Patrick W. and Margaret Hutten McCloskey. She had retired in 1956 from Bell Telephone after 40 years of service with the company. She was a member of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Paul's Church.

One Sister Survives. Survivors include a sister, Mrs. John J. Golden, who lives next door at 19 Chestnut; three nieces and a nephew. A cousin, Robert McCloskey, who lives across the street, was one of the volunteer firemen at the scene.

A Requiem mass will be held Thursday morning at 9:30 in St. Paul's Church, with burial in the parish cemetery. Friends may call this Wednesday evening between 7 and 9 at the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue.

The fire was discovered by friends visiting Robert M. Hendry, the Borough's police commissioner, who lives next door at 15 Chestnut. To the right of Mr. Hendry's house is the Chestnut Street headquarters of Engine Company No. 1.

Mr. Hendry called the police. First on the scene were Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and Pfl. Ronald Holliday who immediately requested a general alarm. Miss McCloskey was found in the living room, clad in a nightgown and coat.

Fire damage to the living room was extensive. Police chief Peter J. McCrohan, who was at the scene, reported that the area near the chimney and a decorative fireplace were badly scorched. The upper floor sustained smoke and water damage. The blaze was extinguished by 12:50.

First Since 1968. The death by fire was the first in the Borough since February 28, 1968, when Mrs. Madeline L. Stevens, 71, died in a fire which started in a second floor bedroom of her home at 15 Boudinot Street.

Like Miss McCloskey, she had lived alone. She was the widow of John H. Stevens.

DU PRE COMING

Program Announced. Works by Bach, Faure, Schumann, Dvorak and Martinu will be performed by the renowned cellist Jacqueline Du Pre when she comes to McCarter Theatre Tuesday, January 19. The concert, which will begin at the usual 8:30 hour, is the third in the "Music at McCarter" series.

Miss Du Pre will open her program with Gabriel Faure's Sonata for Cello and Piano and will follow that composition with one of the Bach Suites for Unaccompanied Cello, which she will announce from the stage.

After intermission, she will play Schumann's "Fantasy Pieces" Op. 73; two short compositions by Dvorak and Martinu's Variations on a Theme by Rossini.

'HAMLET' FROM ENGLAND

Next Tuesday. Jonathan Miller's conception of "Hamlet," with a cast of 30 from Oxford and Cambridge, will be presented on the McCarter stage next Tuesday at 8 p.m. Only a few seats remain.

The Oxford Cambridge Shakespeare Company is now appearing at Hunter College in New York and has proceeded to Harvard and Yale after the Princeton appearance.

The title role will be played by Hugh Thomas of Merton College, who was featured as a senior professor in the Lindsay Anderson film "If . . ."

Other principals will be Jonathan James-Moore as Claudius; Claire Howard as Ophelia, Christabel Gairdner as Gertrude; Mike Baker as Polonius; James Harris as Horatio and Keith Kirby as Laertes.

Jonathan Miller, who directed, is one of the four original performers in "Beyond the Fringe."

FROM POLAND

"Bariera." McCarter Theatre will start up the second half of its 1970-71 film program next Wednesday, January 6, at 8 p.m., with a New Cinema showing of Jerzy Skolimowski's film "Bariera."

Widely regarded as the leading film talent to come out of Poland during the 1960s, Skolimowski has been influenced profoundly by both Godard and Fellini. He is known in his own country as the chief artist in Poland's "new wave."

"Bariera" describes the maze of dreams and hallucinations experienced by a medical student as he attempts to break away from the values of the old generation.

In 1966, when it was shown in premiere at the New York Film Festival, "Bariera" was termed by one critic "nothing less than an astonishingly accurate view of the contemporary Polish mentality, expressed in terms of youthful romance and full of dazzling visual metaphors."

ORGAN RECITAL MONDAY

At Westminster. Robert Baker, head of the department of Sacred Music at Union Theological Seminary in New York City, will play two organ recitals at Westminster Choir College on Monday. These recitals, at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m., are part of the 1970-71 Casavant Organ Dedication Series.

The recitals are open to the public without charge, but because seating is limited, tickets of admission must be reserved in advance. Reservation may be made by calling Westminster Choir College, 921-7100.

FILM SERIES PLANNED

By Garden Clubs. Films on conservation, wildlife, ecological and natural resource themes will be given at the Princeton Playhouse during January. The Garden Club of Princeton and the Stony Brook Garden Club are sponsors.

Three films will be shown at 10 a.m. on Saturday, January 9: "Marsh Is Not Waste Land" explodes the myth that marshes must fall prey to development; "The Bald Eagle," a history and study of our national bird, and "So Little Time," a film containing spectacular photographic effects.

On Saturday, January 16, the series will include the well known and humorous Tom Lehr short film based upon his ironic song, "Pollution." Also a Disney film, "Litter," and a documentary on the environmental clean up effort in Savannah, Ga. The latter film, the garden clubs hope, will give Princeton citizens some constructive ideas for improving Princeton.

The movies are free, and open to all ages.

MIDDLESEX MAN DIES

At Junction Station. A 68 year old Middlesex man collapsed and died shortly after getting off a Penn Central train at Princeton Junction last Saturday night.

John Hlafter, a retired employee of the Olsen Bearing Company of Bound Brook, suffered a heart attack on the way to his car in the parking lot and fell down a stairway. JT and his wife, Julia, were returning from the New York Knicks Buffalo Braves basketball game in Madison Square Garden.

RIGHTS COMPLAINT FILED

Against Electrical Unions. Director James H. Blair of the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights has announced that a complaint has been brought charging the entire electrical construction trade in New Jersey with racial discrimination in employment.

The complaint by Mr. Blair charges four electrical workers' unions, the Electrical Contractors Association, and one electrical contractor with engaging in patterns and practices of discrimination. The Association and the contractor are charged as representatives of the class of all contractors who operate under collective bargaining agreements with the locals in the Newark area.

The complaint alleges that Locals 52, 581, 263, and 675 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the New Jersey Chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Association, and Flours Electric Corporation maintain a system of recruitment, selection, and referral which has the effect of excluding Black and Puerto Rican workers.

According to Blair, the complaint grew, in part, out of the hearing in Newark in March 1970 by the U.S. Department of Labor, Office of Federal Contract Compliance. "The hearing revealed the gross underutilization of minority people in the skilled craft trades in general, and in the electrical trade in particular."

In the Newark Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (Essex, Union, and Morris counties) in which the proportion of minority people in the population is very substantial, the total minority representation in the Electrician's Union is 29 out of 1341, or 2.1%.

The filing of a complaint does not constitute a finding of discrimination. It simply initiates an investigation into whether the Law Against Discrimination has been violated.

The collective bargaining agreements, according to the complaint, require the contractors to draw all of their employees from those referred by the union before employing any others. The substantially segregated unions, in turn, almost exclusively refer white workers through their hiring halls.

It is also charged that the hiring hall consistently refers union members to contractors before nonunion members.

The complaint continues that the union in recruiting, testing, selecting, and training members utilizes practices which favor white workers over favor white workers over ers.

elegantly attired eccentric, is the Ghost of Christmas Past. The Ghost of Christmas Present is a giant, heavily bearded Kenneth More.

Bob Cratchit, the clerk, is played by David Collins and Richard Beaumont appears as Tiny Tim. The musical has a minimum of dancing and a bland score. The 19th Century sets and costumes, photographed in color, have a fairy tale quality. (Running time 111 minutes.)

PRINCE

There's a Girl in My Soup (Now playing) stars Peter Sellers and Goldie Hawn in a sophisticated tale about the capering of a middle-aged London gourmet.

The film opens with his successful seduction of a former girl friend who has just been married. But he is outwitted by Miss Hawn, a girl about town whom he temporarily heds and hoards. The best performance is given by Tony Britton in the role of Seller's very much married publisher and friend.

Ray Boulting, author of the play of the same name, directed the film.

GARDEN and ERIC

Little Fauss and Big Halsy (Now playing) is a motorcycle racing movie with a difference.

Big Halsy (Robert Redford) is a motorcycle racer of some skill and renown. Little Fauss (Michael J. Pollard) is only his tuner, who dreams of becoming a racing star. Big is a killer with the ladies; Little wants to be but isn't.

For every plot cliche, such as the disagreement between the two over a girl who joins them on their travels, there is an effective twist. The action sequences have been vigorously staged, using cameras in helicopters and strapped to motorcycles in the thick of the race.

The country rock score is sung by Johnny Cash and others, punctuating the dramatic sections of the film. And the girl, played by newcomer Lauren Hutton, is first seen belatedly and spectacularly, wholly nude.

CA and will lead two courses for women are planned for the lunch hour for working women.

Girls and women can also choose skin diving or swimnastics, while girls will have available competitive swimming, folk dancing, and two interest groups, Career Opportunities, and Social Action! New adult programs planned for women are needlework, Chinese cooking, Personal Development through Fashion, and Spanish conversation.

The wide variety of classes in sports and exercises includes slimnastics, ballet exercise for women, modern dance for women, an evening variety class particularly for working girls, Kodokan Judo, yoga exercise, Fun Exercises, beginning and advanced adult ballroom dancing, three Skiing programs, ballet for boys and girls, toddlers gym, and modern dance for girls.

The swimming program includes beginning swimming for non swimmers, instruction for intermediate and advanced swimmers, synchronized swim club, diving, and children's swimming.

Special programs, sponsored by the health, physical education, and recreation department are the American Red Cross standard first aid course which will meet Mondays from 7:30 to 9 p.m. for only membership and book fees, the Red Cross water safety instructor's course, which will meet Tuesday mornings, and the swimmer's aid preparation course for women who would like to assist certified swimming instructors.

The free women's learn to swim course, jointly sponsored with the Red Cross, offers special help to women who fear the water. It will meet Friday evenings, January 8 through February 12.

Youngsters may be enrolled in toddlers creative workshop, Fun with Sounds, Mini Maids, Creative Crafts, Fun Drama, typing and folk dancing. The youth department is also offering a series of mini-classes just five weeks long that includes sewing, Oh, Wow! Cooking, interior decorating, and party planning.

In addition to courses being offered initially, knitting and crocheting, beginners needlework, chair rushing, intermediate sewing, typing, writers workshop, decoupage, painting with acrylics, oil painting, bridge, folk guitar, beginning recorder and beginner record er consort, French conversation and English for the foreign born are listed by the adult department. Adult clubs are The Melting Pot, International Club, Newcomers, and Friday Club.

FIREMEN PRAISED

(And Commuters Win — Sort of.) Princeton's volunteer firemen who fought the tragic fire at 17 Chestnut Street Monday midnight were praised by Borough Councilman Robert Hendry at Council's year-end meeting Tuesday.

He singled out for particular mention fireman Robert McCloskey who crawled under the dense layer of thick smoke to pull out Miss Rose McCloskey. She later was pronounced dead of smoke inhalation.

With his fellow Council Democrat Alice Maile and Councilmen-to-be Joseph Moore, Martin Lombardo and John Strange, Mr. Hendry had been in conference in his home. As the visitors left, they noticed smoke coming from the McCloskey house. Mr. Moore, Mr. Lombardo and Mr. Strange ran to the dwelling in a futile effort to help, while Mr. Hendry summoned the firemen.

Meter Fee Lowered. Council passed, 5-0, (Fred Peterson absent), the ordinance setting 30 cents as the 12-hour fee for 112 meters to be installed at the foot of University Place.

This is a partial victory for commuters, who protested the original 50-cent fee; however, some commuters don't want the meters at all. They warn, as did Gale Smith, 673 Prospect, that commuters will now drive to Princeton Junction in such droves that Penn Central will be forced to discontinue the dinky. This, he said, would make his property value go down.

But Scott Bailey, 90 Cleveland Lane, said Princeton shouldn't count on having the dinky much longer anyway because Penn Central isn't interested in preserving it.

"I wouldn't want eventual loss of the dinky to be traced solely to these meters," he warned. "Other factors will be involved, too."

Councilman Charles Cornforth told both men that if Council thought the meters would bring the demise of the dinky, nobody on Council would vote for the measure.

"Besides," he added, "if enough commuters now drive to Princeton Junction, we'll have that many more all day meters for people here in town."

Council voted unanimously, as Sewer Operating Committee banker, to buy the 29 acres of River Road land owned by the Mercer County Girl Scout Council. It adjoins the dump and will be used to expand it. Price: $105,000.

"CHRISTMAS" DEBATED

As School Board Meets. The idea is not to "take Christmas out" of Princeton public schools, but to "put more in," perhaps in the form of comparative religion studies, suggested many in an audience of about 100 parents and students at a special "Christmas in Princeton" school board meeting December 22.

Board President John Marks told the gathering in John Witherspoon School that board policy holds the schools are not appropriate places for religious observances. Historical development of various faiths, however, is regarded as an appropriate subject.

Superintendent Philip E. McPherson said the schools were trying to make "Christmas and other religious observances educational, not merely repetitious."

He said that Santa Clauses, wreaths, stockings and decorations create repetition, which the schools, he said, do not want.

Ashamed of Princeton. Another protested that the 1970 ruling dampening down Christmas observance in the schools had made her child unhappy because there was no holiday party in the classroom.

"I'm ashamed to live in Princeton," one man declared. "First prayers went, now Christmas, and soon we'll be like the Communists. Nobody thinks more highly of minorities than I do, but after all, the majority rules." His remarks were greeted with applause.

"The real issue is uncon scious bigotry," stated Dr. Nathaniel Boonin.

Dr. Harvey Rothberg, former school board member, praised the present board and said the religious guidelines developed by Dr. McPherson were excellent.

Mrs. E. Frederick Laschever said she thought people who attacked either the board or the school administration were "irresponsible."

"The board and administration spend their time worrying about our children," she declared.

Board member William Marvel spoke for about 20 minutes, referring to a proposed committee to study religion in the schools and asking whether it had been "lost in the shuffle."

Dr. Marks said it hadn't, adding his opinion that staff should form curriculum, not the townspeople or the board.

Dr. Marks read a letter from a Jewish parent who said he would be unable to attend because the meeting was being held on the first night of Chanukah.

One board member suggested afterwards that holding the meeting the first night of Chanukah was symbolic of "insensitivity" on the schools to minority groups. All nine board members were present.

For additional comments on Christmas in the schools, see "Mailbox," page 13.

CANDIDATE SPEAKS

Is "Independent." The Rev. C. George Fitzgerald, candidate for one of the two expected Township seats on the Princeton Regional School Board, says he is running as an "independent" not aligned with either the pro or anti administration groups.

The Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald has been Chaplain of Princeton Hospital since September, 1966. He lives at 280 Jefferson Rd., and has two children, first and fourth graders, in John Witherspoon School.

Interest in education inspired him to run, he says. He is supervisor of pastors and Seminary students in clinical training at the hospital.

"Primarily I'm interested in a tightening of the existing school system, rather than a radical alteration," he says. "The Long Range Planning Report recommends keeping expenses down, and to do that without sacrificing educational quality is quite a challenge. I think it might be met by using community resources and existing school personnel more fully."

The Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald says he would like to relate families more to the schools, particularly as a response to the drug problem. He sees in his hospital work a great deal of overlapping in efforts to cope with drug abuse.

"Ideally," he continues, "board and administration should have complementary roles: policy making for the board, and administration for the Administration. The roles are hard to separate; the effort must be made."

The candidate's wife teaches in the new McKenzie School in Twin Rivers and serves as a "unit leader" (a crossing guard) for several teachers.

Mayor Wallace Deplores School "Polarization"

"I am very concerned about the obvious polarization of the town on school issues," stated Township Mayor John D. Wallace at a year-end press conference last week.

Separation of schools and municipal government is normally observed with strictest regard for the dividing line. But Mayor Wallace said his concern about polarization was very deep.

"I hate to see Princeton taking two distinct positions," he continued. "It is not to the long-range benefit of the educational system. I have the highest regard and respect for Superintendent Philip McPherson and the so-called 'pro-Administration' people, but I have warm feelings toward the 'anti-administration people, too. I have no trouble reconciling the two points of view, and I refuse to think either side is 100% right."

Mayor Wallace said he didn't feel that everything the school administration had done is perfect, but "everything isn't wrong, either."

The school board's main efforts should be directed toward the Long-Range Planning Report, the Mayor suggested." The nine members of the board must reach accommodation," he stated. " If EVERYTHING is a source of great public debate, we'll never get to the heart of the long-range plans and that's what we should be working on."

He added that the Princeton community itself should "get together" or nothing in the Long-Range report can be acted upon profitably.

"Students are getting a lot out of Princeton schools," he continued, "the quality of education here is unquestionably higher than it was when I was a student in Princeton schools." He said that his two sons are "excited" about school.

Comparing school board and Township Committee, the mayor said that Democrats and Republicans on Committee seem able to work out their disagreements.

Christ Removed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It appears that a vocal minority has removed Christ from Christmas in the Princeton Schools. Now, let's do away with teaching the theory of Evolution. This theory often taught as fact is definitely humanistic, profane, ungodly and sacrilegious.

W. DOUGLAS SMITH

Forgotten Commuters.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Once again it's time to remind our remarkably dense local officials that a large part of their revenue is derived from commuters who don't observe the relaxed work schedules of the Princeton business, university or indeed town-government communities.

Last Tuesday's light but treacherous early-morning snow was a case in point: the Borough and Township portions of Washington Road were still unsanded at the time when drivers were using it to get to the last of the three major commuting trains. When I phoned back from the Junction, a police desk officer told me the sand trucks "are there now." But they weren't there for the traffic which needed them.

Surely it's not too much to ask town employees to get up, just once in a while, as early as those who pay a large part of their salaries.

JOHN L. DUNNING

41 Gulick Road

New School Board Needed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following is a letter to John Marks, president of the Princeton Regional School Board.

After reading with great concern and alarm the latest decision handed down by our learned school board regarding Christmas in our schools, I am thoroughly convinced that the entire board should be removed.

I have followed your decisions and indecisions for many months. When a school board requires two years to appoint a Principal but will permit a minority group to convince them to remove Christmas from our schools within two months, then I recommend a new school board be elected.

Apparently the majority does not rule. How can we ever "over-emphasize Christmas. Especially in view of the violence all about us. If this be true that we really over emphasize Christmas then let us carry that thought all the way and extend it into the stores in the Princeton area that insist on decorating, advertising and teaching their children how to make money during Christmas sales periods.

Perhaps the same minority groups that are objecting to Christmas in our schools would not object to having our schools open to them during the Christmas holidays and permitting them to observe their religious holiday at the appropriate time.

On the other hand I see no reason why we cannot celebrate most of the minority groups religious holidays. I think it would be a wonderful educational experience and opportunity if our schools had the class rooms and halls decorated to celebrate the religions of the minority races. If we are going to expose and educate our children to all religions, then let us do just that. We don't teach by excluding.

I urge the board to reconsider this decision and not be swayed by a few urging them to eliminate Christmas from our schools. We have already eliminated too many good things.

ALLEN W. HARTLEY

Province Line Road

Balanced Journalism Admired.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It is likely that I am only one of many who have long admired the objective balance with which TOWN TOPICS reviews important events in the Princeton region. Whether the topic be a critical issue with the Board of Education, a Town-Gown difference over matters of taxes, zoning, or legal confrontation, or whether a question of social concern that merely raises various subjective hackles, TOWN TOPICS manages a judicious, balanced and remarkably detailed review of the facts as well as some of the fancies.

In contrast to many headline oriented newspaper habits of dealing with oversimplified statements based on isolated facts, a typical TOWN TOPICS piece digs carefully under the surface and reviews the story with judicious calm. The absence of eyebrow-raising headlines, itself, creates a predisposition in the reader toward a balanced view in the story.

All of this is prompted by the recent piece dealing with the reevaluation of the McCarter Theatre Program. Seeking a calm and relaxed view of several sides of the matter, the TOPICS story avoided any slant that suggested either gratuitous editorializing or the suggestion of pejorative divergencies of views. The ability to couch complex matters in clearly assimilated terms and with all the necessary details in place and perspective is a high mark in journalistic skill.

I'm sure I represent the Administrative Staff of McCarter in expressing gratification at the skill of TOWN TOPICS in keeping the public record so well balanced and so clear.

ARTHUR LITHGOW

'School Scrap Reverse Heresy'

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Parents in this community who are grateful for such educational institutions as the Princeton Day School, the Stuart Country Day School, the Hun School and the Lawrenceville School are inclined to observe with sober detachment the war of words precipitated by every crisis and ruckus in the local Regional School system. It is not possible, however, to remain uninvolved when, for example, the administrative board of the public school system decides to raise their own salaries to meet the cost of living index and the property owners must face the extra taxation "bite" the inflated education budget requires. What is more, the public school system belongs to the people as a whole and, therefore, every citizen who is a taxpayer has a stake in it and is affected by the decisions that are made and by the quality and reputation of the educational program given.

The most recent flurry in the public school arena had to do with the exclusion of Christmas symbols and decorations from the classroom buildings. In your "This Is Princeton" column (TOWN TOPICS, December 24), such comments as "dampening down Christmas observances" described the cancellation of some traditional festive customs in view of the protest of a minority whose religious persuasion either does not recognize the Birth of Christ or is so pure that emblems from secular sources outrage their sensitivity.

Now all of us deprecate the crass commercialization of Christmas and only he who does not make profit from it is free to throw the first stone. But the peculiar side of this new controversy in the Princeton school system is its clumsy sophistry. Heresy is the taking of a segment of truth and dogmatically asserting or claiming it to be the whole truth. But the current school scrap is heresy in reverse.

It presumes that by removing a few simple symbols that are merely fractional reflections of the meaning of the Birth of Christ, you can for one group blot out the festival from our culture, public and private, or for another group you can restore this Christian observance to its pristine purity. This dispute is ridiculous when we spell it out in practical situations.

Is it not true that every day when you date a letter or a form or application as A.D. 1971, you are recognizing the

The Rising Generation

THE SCHOOL'S CONTRIBUTION

By Douglas O. McClure

Several months ago, a friend who has left the ranks of independent school headmasters to become an English teacher in an inner city school showed me a theme written by one of his students entitled "What Do I Wish For". It began:

"I wish that I was out of school and had a nice job where I could help my father because he don't have any education at all. I wish that I could have done went to collage and finish so I could get it off my back for good I wish I could starte life over again because if I could I would be rich at this age I wish I had a new car. I wish I had a better job. I wish the black and white would learn to live together as people I wish that I was marry and had a good paying job so that I could bring up a amily but some times I wish I was on drugs just to keep my mind off these things I wish every body love every body . . ."

It is easy for us to accept this as a rather pathetic example of how education has failed and then for all intents and purposes dismiss it from our minds. Obviously, to explain this as an indictment of our educational system is right in many ways. I wonder, however, if we do not accept it as valid for the wrong reason. The true significance of what this young man said is not in the poor grammar and uncertain rhetoric, but rather the awareness by this generation of students that its educational experience is inadequatelydefined.

Education can no longer be red brick buildings, pleasant stereotypes of the individual faculty members well remembered 20 years later, and classrooms filled with content by assigned texts and teachers' eloquence. These are a part of everyone's education, but only a part.

If we limit our definition of education to these perimeters, an ever-increasing number of our children will be echoing — more or less gramatically — the kind of answer to the question "What do I wish for" that this student offers.

What is needed is a much greater awareness of what the out-of-school experience of all students represents in the total educational process. Understandably, schools have been reluctant to meet this issue directly, since to do so would seem to represent diminution of their role. It is important to realize, however, that just the opposite is probably true. The more effectively schools respond to this awareness, the more significant will be their contribution to the young person's experience.

This is not to suggest that the school abandon its responsibility to impart information and develop skills. Rather, it requires that in addition, the school also begin to reassess the ways it can assist and augment the learning experience that the child undergoes as a part of his community and in his family.

The conventional classroom approach may have to be modified. The teacher's role must change. Quite possibly, the nature of the teacher's education and previous experience may have to be redefined if he is to meet this challenge successfully. At times, this may be difficult for parents, teachers, and even students to accept, since it will mean the teacher is going to spend more time outside his classroom and as a result become more visible, and possibly more vulnerable.

If this is to occur, equally significant changes must come in the institutional life of the school itself. The sanctity of the school day and the academic calendar can no longer remain inviolate. More and more students should be given the opportunity to involve themselves in experiences which take them away from the school, but they will still be recognized as valid parts of their educational program and acceptable for academic credit.

This requires changes in the techniques of evaluation to assess what a student has done.

If the changes are to be made responsibly and beneficially, it is apparent that the school will have to play a major role in bringing them about. To the degree that it is successful in this, school is going to retain its importance and continue to be the main influence in the total educational of the young person. To the extent that the school fails to meet this challenge, it will become increasingly inconsequential in the process.

The challenge clearly is not as easy one. Consider, for instance, the difficulty both of fulfilling the necessary job o the traditional role o the school and accepting the additional demands of the new role while still fostering a student's sense of commnnity and identification with his school.

I think it can be done. More importantly, it seems to me it must be done. If it is not, our children will no longer be writing essays about what they wish for, but seeking alternatives beyond the realm of the school that will provide them with the means of meeting their needs.

GEDDES NAMED PRESIDENT: William J. P. Geddes, associated with the Grover Loniber Company for 47 years, has been named president of the firm.

GEDDES NOW PRESIDENT

At Grnver Lumber. In 1923, William J. P. Geddes, a native of Rhayada, Wales, joined the Grover & Gulick Lumber Company as a bookkeeper — one year after the company was founded.

Forty-seven years later, at the firm's annual meeting this month, he was named president of the Alexander Street company. Mr. Geddes, whose home is as 165 Jefferson Road, has served as vice president since 1950.

After coming to this country, Mr. Geddes attended Hardwick Academy in Hardwick, Vermont, and spent four years of night school at Rider studying accounting and business law. He is chairman of the Township's Board of Adjustment and trustee and former president of the Squatters Club.

Grover & Gulick Lumber was founded by John B Grover and John H. R. Gulick in 1922. After the death of Mr. Gulick in 1950, the firm's name was changed to Grover Lumber and incorporated.

Mr. Grover was named chairman of the board. In other administrative changes, Theodore P. Lowe was named vice-president and Franklyn T. Reading, secretary.

RCA HONORS 20

For Length of Service. Twenty RCA employees were honored for their long-term service Friday night at a dinner served in the David Sarnoff Research Center here. "Certificates of Honor" and 25-year awards were presented to 18 individuals, while two others received special awards for 40 years of service.

Dr. James Hillier, Executive Vice President, RCA Research and Engineering, was master of ceremonies at the dinner attended by more than 300. Honored for 40 years of service were Robert R. Goodrich, 2nd, of Grovers Mill Road, Cranbury, and Louis J. Rieger, Alexander Road, Princeton.

Those honored for 25 years of service included Howard L. Irvine, Servis Hill Road, Skillman; Everett G. May, Cranbury Road, Princeton Junction; Paul J. Messineo, Fairview Road, Skillman; Albert Pendyke, Main Street, Plainsboro; Melvin L. Schultz, 30 Harriet Drive, Princeton, and John Stasyszyn, Grovers Mill Road, Plainsboro.

JACOBSON ELECTED

To Architect Society. Architect Marvin B. Jacobson of Trenton, has been elected to corporate membership in the New Jersey Society of Architects, AIA. Membership in the Institute represents the highest level of accomplishment for the architect.

Mr. Jacobson attended Trenton Central High School and received his Bachelor of Architecture degree from Carnegie Mellon University in 1965. He is currently associated with the firm of Collins UHL Hoisington Anderson located at 33 State Road.

Last-Minute Sales a Boon to Many Stores

BUSINESS In Princeton

"It started slow, but the last ten days they drove us crazy!"

Princeton's merchants are almost unanimous in that view. In spite of a slow economy nationally, Princeton's stores did a very nice Christmas business indeed, but in the beginning store owners weren't so sure. . . .

"We expected to be 15-20 percent behind last year," said one gift shop, "but in the last week, we set records and the day before Christmas we did 60 percent more than we ever have on Christmas Eve."

This shop is one of those reporting a "disappointing" first ten days in December. Its owner thinks people simply procrastinated, counted their change and then decided "Oh, why not spend the money!" He also reports a tremendous increase in the use of bank credit cards — ten times as much."

After Christmas, Too. Business at this store the day after Christmas was double that of any other December 26.

Like other shops, this one sold more of its middle-priced items and fewer of the expensive ones; in fact, some orders for expensive merchandise were cancelled by the owner before delivery.

In another shop with similar merchandise, the report is "Our volume was up, but we had to work for it. We sold more of the smaller, less expensive items."

Owners of the Princeton Gourmet say, "We had a really good season. More people are interested in cooking than ever before, and they don't mind spending money when they can justify the article as being useful, wholesome or edible!"

Thorne's Pharmacy reports that Christmas was "as good if not better" than last year.

Christmas Eve Was "Crazy"

At another large Nassau Street Store — "The first half of December was not too good. People waited. But the last 10 days were just hell. Customers drove us nuts!

"We had eight clerks the day before Christmas and we needed every one — it was the best day the store has ever had. It was unreal! Overall, though, we're only slightly ahead of 1969."

One Nassau Street specialty shop reports that "It started off below, but it caught up and the last two weeks were ahead. It wasn't up to what we had really hoped for and didn't have the impact Christmas usually has, even though we were ahead of last year."

LaVake's Jewelry store, expanded and remodeled, found Christmas "Good!" according to owner Sam Kind. "It was better than last year," he said, and commenting on his big new store, added "It should be!"

"Not bad at all, very happy" . . . "About the same as '69 and '69 was very good so I can't complain" . . . "Substantially ahead, by 10 percent, of last year. . . ." "Superb! The last couple of weeks, we went like crazy and the last two days I thought the cash register would break . . . ." slightly better than last year. . . ." those are some of the remarks from the balance sheet.

"We put in some new lines, some louder stuff like 'bells' and it pulled in some new customers," reports Ben Brown of Princeton Clothing. "We still carry conventional lines but if it weren't for those new customers we might have slipped below last year."

Riechard's Shoes' Dick Lanahan is "very pleased." After a slow November and early December, things were "excellent." Mr. Lanahan thinks most Nassau Street merchants feel that business met last year's figures.

DEDUCTIONS TO GO UP

For Unemployment and Disability. New legislation recently enacted will raise the New Jersey employment insurance contribution for employees to ¾% for disability, as of Jan 1, an increase of ¼%.

This contribution together with the ¾% unemployment contribution rate, makes a total of 1½ authorized for deductions from employes' wages for unemployment and disability insurance purposes. Private plans requiring worker contributions may adjust these contributions in the same manner as required for the State Plan.

BARISH AGENCY CHOSEN

By Line Art Unlimited. Mort Barish Associates, Inc., of Princeton, has been chosen by Line Art Unlimited, also of Princeton, to nationally advertise its new service to artists for converting photographs to line art.

A new technique in processing photographs enables Line Art Unlimited to provide any of 16 different screened conversions. The services will be sold to advertising agencies, art studios, publishers, printers, photographers, designers, and others in the graphic arts field. Capitalized billings will exceed $100,000.

HOSPITAL MEETING SET

For February 22. Princeton Hospital Corporation's 51st annual meeting of the general membership has been called for Monday, February 22, John W. Kauffman, executive vice president, has announced.

In addition to electing trustees, members will hear the "Annual Report to the Community" and the final results of the fifth annual Fund Appeal will be revealed. The Hospital is asking for $325,000 to pay in part for a proposed expanded emergency care center.

To participate in electing trustees and other business of the 248 bed Hospital, an individual must give at least $5 directly to the Hospital Membership Fund. This must be done by December 21 to provide voting membership for the 1971 annual meeting, according to bylaws.

Ralph S. Mason has been appointed chairman of the nominating committee of the Board of Trustees by George W. Conover, the president. Serving with Mr. Mason is Trustee Arthur N. Curtiss and three representatives of the community at large: Mrs. William R. Bouthron, Glen B. Miller, Jr. and C. Barnwell Straut.

Six Trustees to Be Named. Corporation members will elect six trustees to the Board, which was expanded from 15 to 18 elected members at the 1970 annual meeting. The increase allows for three members of the Medical and Dental Staff to serve as trustees.

For Mr. Conover, the annual meeting will end more than two decades of volunteer work and leadership in building the hospital into a community institution offering an effective and efficient comprehensive health care program.

Early in 1970, Mr. Conover was named "Man of the Year" at the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce. By laws of the Hospital Corporation were revised in recent years to limit continuous service on the Board to two successive terms of three years, followed by a year of ineligibility.

Treasurer John C. Whitwell, who joined the Board in 1962 and became an officer the following year, also will be ineligible for re-election for a year. Also expiring are the terms of R. Kenneth Fiarman, GREAT DAY: Princeton Seminary junior Clifford Fiordalis and his wife are the winners of the $500 grand prize in the Princeton Saving and Loan sweepstakes, present by William H. Boozer Jr. (left), executive vice-president, and H. C. Sturhann, president of Princeton Savings Association. "It will be a great help with tuition," Mr. Mlordalis said. Their number, one of 13,000 mailed to area residents, was drawn at the housewarming party held at Princeton Savings' new offices at 122 Nassau Street. The couple live at 2 Wheeler Way, West Windsor.

Dr. Archibald D. Sheeran, George R. Webster and Mr. Curtiss, who is serving as chairman of the fund drive.

The nominating committee will accept nominations from the membership; each petition must be signed by at least five members and contain the acceptance of the nominee. The committee's selections are to be announced by January 28 and additional nominations are to be published 24 hours after nominations are officially closed on February 7. If there are more nominations than there are vacancies on the Board, ballots will be mailed to all voting members ten days prior to the annual meeting date.

OFFICERS ELECTED

By Hook & Ladder. The Princeton Hook & Ladder Fire Company has elected the following officers for 1971: Robert H. Schafer, President; Albert J. Wright, Vice President; John H. Rinehart, Secretary; Vincent M. Sassman, Treasurer, A. M. Stewart, First Assistant Chief; George B. Rollings, Jr., Foreman; William Anderson, First Assistant Foreman; John H. Reed, Second Assistant Foreman; and James Pace, Trustee.

CLASSES SCHEDULED

For Expectant Parents. Classes for Expectant Parents will again be held at Princeton Hospital for men and women awaiting the arrival of a baby early in 1971. The six week free course opens at 7:30 p.m., Monday, at the Hospital.

Parents expecting may register by calling the co-sponsor, Princeton Chapter of American Red Cross, 924-2404, or the Hospital's Department of Community Health Services, 921 7700 Ext. 265.

Two nurses from Community Health, Miss Janet Aylward and Mrs. Mary Wilde, will be the instructors. Through demonstrations, films and discussion, the Expectant Parents are instructed in the care of the newborn.

PROFESSORSHIP ENDOWED

By Anonymous Donor to University. A new endowed professorship has been established in the Department of Economics at Princeton University.

In making the gift, the anonymous donor has asserted his "lasting appreciation for the high quality of education offered by the Department of Economics and, especially, the stimulation of the late Dr. Edwin Walter Kemmerer," eminent American economist (1875-1945), who taught at Princeton from 1912 until 1943.

The new professorship has been made available in the 50th Anniversary year of the donor's graduation from Princeton. The chair — the occupant of which has yet to be designated — will bear the title, "Class of 1920 Professorship of Economics and Banking."

Professorships are established by gifts to the University and provide support for scholars who are leaders in their fields. Princeton has a total of 91 professorships at present. Some go back to the 19th century, the oldest being the Holmes Professorship of Belles-lettres, created in 1875 in the Department of English.

Until now there have been four endowed professorships in the Department of Economics, the most recent one, the Gordon S. Rentschler Memorial Professorship, having been established in 1950.

The Class of 1920 Professorship of Economics and Banking has been established under Princeton's $125-Million Development Program. The University is currently seeking major new financial support to reinforce existing educational programs, and to develop new programs of exceptional scholarly and educational significance. Of the objective of $125 million, a total of $28.4 million has been raised to date.

ART
In Princeton

DECOUPAGE INCLUDED

In Artist Shack Courses. Mrs. Gerry Kimble's course in the 18th Century art of decoupage begins next Thursday, January 7, at the Artist Shack in Pennington's Pennytown. Two hour sessions, morning and evening, for beginners and advanced students are scheduled. Decoupage is the application of paper cutouts to plaques, boxes and metal objects with a finish of lacquer or varnish. Classes will continue until March 20, during which time students will complete as many as eight projects. Advanced courses will teach the sophisticated techniques of repousse, papier tole, trompe l'oeil and antiquing.

Mrs. Kimble, a Princeton resident, is well known for her paintings on porcelain jewelry. She is a graduate of the Patricia Nimock National Seminary for instruction in decoupage.

Other Courses. Classes in painting, graphics and flower arranging begin on Monday, in two-hour day and evening sessions through March 20:

Classes and their teachers include: oil painting, taught by Bill Monaghan, Joan Sansone and Sal Asaro; watercolor, Bill Monaghan; acrylics, Sal Ssaro; ching painting, Marilyn Wittlinger; basic drawing and pen and ink, Yo Piens, and ceramics, Bev Redmor.

Specialized courses include an introduction to the materials and techniques of oil painting, an introduction to abstract painting ane drawing. Also a two-and-one-half hour drawing and painting session for children on Saturday mornings. Classes are limited to 10, so that personal attention may be given to each student's progress. Registration information is available at 466-2616.

ARTS WORKSHOP RESUMES

At Studio On Canal. A 12 week program in the arts for children and adults begins Monday at the Studio on the Canal. The workshops operate on a term basis for the beginner and advanced student, with instruction on a personalized basis.

Offerings include all media painting, ceramic-sculpture for children ages ten and over. Day and evening sessions in drawing, painting and sculpture for adults, are scheduled, as well as working from the model without instruction.

Glenn Cullen, instructor in sculpture, continues his second year with the Studio, teaching sculpting from the model in clay or wax, with emphasis placed on the figure. The workshop is held in the evening.

Drawing and basic instruction in the use of various media is scheduled for two evenings and a morning session with Rex Goreleigh instructing. Although a model is available for portrait and figure studies, all subject matter will be explored.

Ceramic sculpture and pottery will be given contingent on registration for day or evening sessions. Potters' wheel rental is also available on a monthly schedule, mornings, afternoons and evenings. Private instruction in the various media is also available.

Studio on the Canal is located on Canal Road off Alexander Road.

SIGN UP NOW

For PAA Classes. Ranulph Bye, A.W.S., Bucks County watercolorist, has joined the teaching staff of the Princeton Art Association for the winter class session. New classes will begin Monday, January 11 and continue through March 5. Registration is now being accepted at the PAA office, 3 Spring Street.

Twelve courses will be offered. Two designed especially for young people will be held on Wednesday afternoons when public schools are closed. Classes will be taught by Sharon Safran, a graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design, who has had extensive experience teaching young people.

Workshop for youngsters aged 7 to 10 will be Wednesdays from 1:30 to 3:30. Those age 11 to 14 will have workshop from 3:45 to 5:45.

Watercolor painting classes with Ranulph Bye will be held Wednesday mornings from 9:30 to 12:30. Mr. Bye is presently associate professor of art at the Moore College of Art, and has exhibited widely in national and regional exhibitions.

Printmaking for Beginners, will be taught by Yo Pieyns, Tuesdays from 12:30 to 3:30; Printmaking for Beginners and Advanced Monday evenings from 8 to 10:30 with Mae Rockland, and a course in Experimental Graphics on Tuesday evenings from 8 to 10:30 with Joseph Demarais.

A Basic Workshop in drawing techniques will be conducted by Margaret K. Johnson Tuesday mornings from 9:30 to 12:30; landscape, figure, still life with Ann Woolfolk Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 12:00; figure and portrait, with Nelson Shanks Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 10:30; drawing and painting: draped figure and nude with David Chapin Tuesday evenings from 7 to 10.

Obituaries

Robert W. Johnson, Jr.

Robert Wood Johnson Jr., 108 Edgerstoune Road, former president of Johnson & Johnson, New Brunswick, died December 22 at Holy Cross Hospital in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. after a long illness. He was 50 years old.

Born in New Brunswick, Mr. Johnson was the son of the late General Robert Wood Johnson and grandson of the founder of Johnson & Johnson. He had served as president of Johnson & Johnson from 1961 to 1965, and had spent more than 20 years with the family company, beginning with a summer job as a mill hand while he was still in college.

In 1965, Mr. Johnson decided to start a new business venture in the cosmetics field and formed Johnson Industries in Menlo Park. He served as president of that company for several years, but the growth and development of the business was interrupted by his illness.

Following his graduation from the Millbrook School, Mr. Johnson attended Hamilton College and the University of Kentucky and in 1941 joined Johnson & Johnson. Earlier he had spent four summers working as a laborer in various Johnson & Johnson plants so he could better understand all aspects of the business.

In 1942 he enlisted in the United States Army and served four years in England, France and Germany with the 1st and 14th Armored Divisions. He rejoined the company in 1946 and worked in a variety of assignments, including engineering and personnel, before becoming vice president of manufacturing of Ethicon, Inc., a Johnson & Johnson affiliate. In 1950 he moved to Personal Products Company, another affiliate, where he became vice president of merchandising and advertising.

In 1954 Mr. Johnson returned to the parent company and was appointed to the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors. A year later he became executive vice president in charge of marketing and in 1960 was named executive vice president and general manager. He began his four year term as president of the company in 1961. In 1963 he became vice chairman of the Executive Committee.

While he had a deep interest in community and civic projects, Mr. Johnson frequently selected lesser known organizations and worked quietly behind the scenes. He also had a constant concern for the preservation of natural resources, and he gave his time and financial support to various wildlife projects. He was a member of the Camp Fire Club of America, the Atlantic Indians Trapshooting Association and the New York Yacht Club.

Mr. Johnson is survived by his wife, the former Betty Wold, a daughter, Elizabeth R., four sons, Robert W. IV, Keith W., Willard T. C. and Christopher W., a sister, Miss Sheila Johnson of New York City; his stepmother, Mrs. Robert W. Johnson of Princeton; and an uncle, J. Seward Johnson, who is vice president and chairman of the finance committee, and a member of the Board of Directors of Johnson & Johnson.

Private funeral services were held in Florida.

The family requests contributions be made to the Middlesex St. Peter's Joint Hospital Building Fund, Inc., New Brunswick, or to the Highland Park Fire Aid Squad, Highland Park.

Leo G. McCluskey, 63, of 17 Carnegie Drive, died at his home on December 24 after a lengthy illness. He was a retired wiring inspector for Public Service with 42 years of service.

Born in St. John, New Brunswick, Canada, Mr. McCluskey was a member of the Princeton Rod and Gun Club and a former member of B.P.O.E. Lodge 2129 of Princeton.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marion T. McCluskey; one son, L. Richard McCluskey of Princeton, a daughter, Mrs. Lucy B. McCluskey of Trenton.

The service was held at the Mather Funeral Home with interment in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Miss Lillian E. Cosad, 77, of 20 Maple Street, died December 27 in the Merwick Unit of Princeton Hospital. A teacher, she was retired from the Atlantic City High School.

Born in Wolcott, N.Y., Miss Cosad was a graduate of Syracuse University and held a master of education degree.

from Harvard University Graduate School.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, the Princeton Women's Club, the Princeton Branch of the AAUW, Delta Kappa Gamma and the New Jersey Education Association.

A sister, Mrs. Russell R. MacDonald of Richmond, Va., survives her.

Interment was in Walcott, N.Y. A memorial service will be held on January 10 at 3 p.m. in the Niles Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church of Princeton. Arrangements were made by the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial gifts may be made to the Princeton Historical Society or to the Building Fund of First Presbyterian Church.

John N. Sherman, 85, died December 27 at his home, 606 Princeton Road, Plainsboro. He was the husband of Mrs. Luella T. Sherman.

Born in Iroquois, Canada, he lived in Plainsboro for 43 years. He retired in 1965 as a maintenance employee of Princeton University. He was a member of the Plainsboro Presbyterian Church and a former member of the Plainsboro Lions Club.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Prior* at home, and four grandchildren.

The service was held in the Cole Funeral Home, the Rev. Cullen Story of Princeton Theological Seminary officiating. Interment was in Brainerd Cemetery.

J. Dunford Hagadorn Jr., 21, of Devonshire Drive, Hightstown, formerly of Princeton, died December 24. He was the son of Mrs. Lorrayne H. Hagadorn of Hightstown and John D. Hagadorn Sr. of Hopewell.

Born in Princeton and a resident here for 16 years, he lived in Hightstown for the past five years. He was a 1967 graduate of Hightstown High School and a Navy veteran.

Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Larry Weisel of Hightstown, Mrs. James Markley of Trenton and Miss Caren Hagadorn at home; two brothers, Douglas and Steven, both at home; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Housner of Cranbury and his paternal grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hagadorn Sr., of Princeton.

The service was held in the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. Walter T. Gandek of First Methodist Church, Hightstown, officiating. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Mary C. Toth, 87, of 50 Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill, died December 22 in Princeton Hospital. She operated the Rocky Hill Inn for 40 years.

Born in Hungary, Mrs. Toth had lived in Rocky Hill since 1923. She was a founder and first treasurer of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Nicholas Greek Catholic Church of Trenton.

Surviving are her husband, John Toth; two daughters, Mrs. James O'Malley of Rocky Hill and Mrs. Louis Dobos of Trenton; two sons, George W. of Rocky Hill and Joseph M. of Trenton; six grand children and eight great grandchildren.

Requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Nicholas Greek Catholic Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Edward E. Hunt, 64, of 61 East Prospect Street, Hopewell, died December 25 at his home.

He retired from the New Jersey State Highway Department with 30 years service, and was later employed for six years by the Peonington Quality Market. Mr. Hunt was a member of Calvary Baptist Church, Hopewell, for 50 years.

His wife, Mrs. Grace Cooper Hunt, survives him.

The service was held in the Cromwell Memorial Home, the Rev. Dr. Bruce Pullen of Calvary Baptist Church officiating. Interment was in Pennington Cemetery.

Mrs. Louie B. VanDyke, 72, of 112 West Broad Street, Hopewell, died December 25 in Mercer Hospital. She was the first registered nurse to be employed by the Hopewell Township School District.

A graduate of the Mercer School of Nursing, Mrs. Van Dyke was director of the Hopewell Cancer Dressing Group for 17 years, a member of the Hopewell Chapter 112 OES, the Ladies Auxiliary of the Hopewell Fire Department, the First United Presbyterian Church and the Mercer Hospital Nursing Alumni Association.

She was also a member of the Sewing Circle of the church, the Hopewell Valley Garden Club and the Women's Club of Hopewell.

Surviving are her husband, Raymood S. Van Dyke; one daughter, Mrs. Malcombe Magner of Pennington; three sisters, Mrs. Keturah Bodine of Flemington, Mrs. Robert Gantz of Hopewell and Mrs. Caroline Stoute of Bloomington, Ind., and three grandchildren.

A family service was held in Cromwell Memorial Home, the Rev. Robert A. Berioger of the Hopewell Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was in Highland Cemetery. Memorial gifts may be sent to the American Cancer Society.

Occasionally you may need a little help

Help in the form of a loan. For a lot of reasons, money can be very helpful. And the reasons don't have to be as dramatic as serpents in a pit. It could just be that your old car is a serpent of a kind . . . the kind that eats dollars in the form of repair bills. Perhaps your dragon is a college tuition bill for junior. Or a washing machine that spits out dirty clothes. At First National we have all types of dragon-slayer loans. And just plain loan-loans too. That's for nice problems like vacations. Stop in at any of our four offices.

If Penn Wins Here, Ivy Basketball Race Could Be Over by Jan. 9

Will Pennsylvania's fifth ranked basketball team make a virtual runaway of the Ivy race by the end of the first full week of competition? A Princeton quintet, which has been disappointing in its inability to top the .500 mark during December, will provide a major share of the answer to that question Monday night when the two teams meet in Jadwin Gym before a crowd that is expected to top 5,000.

The 1971 schedule gives the highly capable Quakers the opportunity of taking a giant step toward retention of their title by defeating their three toughest opponents away from home within a period of five days. If they win from the Tigers, and then go on to top Harvard at Cambridge Thursday and Dartmouth at Hanover the following Saturday afternoon, no one is likely to catch them. They might, in addition, become the first Ivy team to go through two league seasons undefeated since Columbia turned the trick in 1904 and '05.

Penn, which went into the finals of the Quaker City Tournament this week with a 7-0 mark, has all three of the sport's major requirements, balanced shooting ability, defensive skill and bench depth. Every starting member of the team that finished the regular season last winter with a 25-1 record is back, and one of the east's better freshman quintets of a year ago is on hand as replacements.

Four members of the starting line up, paced by 6-8 Bob

BRIAN TAYLOR: The sophomore guard has a 23-point average for the five games Princeton's basketball team has played away from home.

Morse at 15.9, average 14 points or better per game a tremendous source of fire power. Morse and 6-8 Jim Wolf are the forwards, 6-7 Corky Calhoun the center, 5-11 Steve Bilsky and 6-2 Dave Wohl the guards. The first reserve Coach Dick Harter generally uses is 6-8 Phil Hankinson a sophomore who holds the Penn freshman scoring record of 429 points.

Quakers Strong up Front. Despite the fine combination that Bilsky and Wohl provide in the back court, there is some possibility that Princeton will give away very little there if Brian Taylor and Ted Manakas are in top form. The key will come as much as anything else on fouls called by the officials; if the often aggressive Princeton sophomores are in foul trouble early, the decision may be reached by half time. Both Taylor and Manakas have picked up three personals in the first 10 or 12 minutes more than once this season, and both are vital cogs in a smoothly-functioning Princeton offense.

The Tigers' problems will focus largely on the need to contain Penn's big men. Captain Bill Sickler will in all probability draw Morse, a fine corner shot, in the match ups, with sophomore Bill Kapler getting the unenviable assignment of trying to handle the lithe Calhoun.

That would put Bill Daake on Wolf, who averaged only 5.4 points a game last year, but Harter tends to shuffle Hankinson in quickly if any of his front court men are off. He can also come up with a 6-5 guard, junior Alan Cotler, who is at least the equal of any player on the Princeton bench, as well as a 6-5 senior in John Koller, who adds more depth when needed.

It is in reserve strength, too, that the Quakers have a marked edge, should starting players on both sides run into foul trouble. Princeton has rarely had a performance this season from any of its top four or five reserves that has been a contributing factor to its limited success.

Same New England Swing. While Penn is making the northern New England trip after playing in Jadwin, the Tigers face the same foes. They'll be at Dartmouth the night of January 7, playing a young Indian quintet which has only one senior on the squad, and at Cambridge to meet Harvard two days later.

Both teams have their sights set on first-division finishes, because of unusual sophomore strength. If Princeton cannot balance its offense and improve its defensive ability in the next ten days, the Tigers could lose their first three Ivy games for the first time in more than a decade.

FORDHAM ON SATURDAY

Rams Are Tough, Too. While Fordham's basketball team isn't among the nation's top 20, the Rams won their first eight and are expected to provide more opposition than Princeton can handle in the small gym in the Bronx when the teams meet Saturday night. The Tigers won here last winter, 69 to 54, but the New Yorkers have been greatly revived under the coaching of Richard "Digger" Phelps, who earned the nickname for the tremendous job of recruiting he did while an assistant at Pennsylvania.

Unlike most teams the Orange and Black has met this season, Fordham will give a way a bit to it in height, so that Kapler and Daake should have a rebounding advantage. The Rams have a balanced starting five, however, and a considerable home court advantage, with the combination making a Princeton victory off the Tigers' recent play unlikely.

Defense Is Sub-Par. Statistics for the first seven games show that much of Princeton's trouble is traceable to inability of its sophomore lineup to play the kind of defensive ball for which last winter's team was known. A year ago, the Tigers were one of the top teams in the nation ranked on a basis of points allowed — 63 per game.

So far this season, they have yielded 74 — and that 11-point difference is the reason for a number of the defeats they have absorbed. They are also being outshot from the floor, a rarity for Princeton teams in the past decade, although not by much. Their percentage is .427 to .436 for the opposition.

At the foul line, Princeton's

Ivy Presidents Reject a 10th Football Game

Despite the fact that every Ivy League athletic budget is running heavily in the red, and every Ivy League college is now operating at a deficit well into seven figures, their presidents have voted against scheduling a tenth football game.

Each of the teams has in effect played a tenth game for years, holding a scrimmage with another college staged under full game conditions. Some Ivies split their squads and scrimmage two different opponents, with overall costs of travel, training meals, lodging and officials running into four figures.

In contrast to such an outlay, potential gross revenue of $50,000 is a reasonable estimate from a tenth game. If an above-average gate attraction — yet still a highly-traditional rival — such as Army or Navy could be hooked it would be markedly higher.

Ivy college presidents have gone to considerable lengths in the past year to paint their financial predicaments, which stem from a multiple of causes ranging from loss of government - sponsored contracts, to the deep inroad of the recession on executive incomes and corporate earnings, to the mounting disaffection of older alumni. In common with private and publicly - supported institutions of higher learning everywhere in the nation, the Ivies need financial assistance, and yet when it is within their own power to achieve a measure of self help, they reject it.

According to Thursday's New York Times, Dr. John Kemeny of Dartmouth (who is now chairman of the informal association of Ivy presidents) raised the question of a tenth game at the annual meeting of the eight college heads earlier this month. Dr. Kemeny told the Times that following discussion, he found himself alone in favoring such a policy change, and that a vote on the proposal drew negative replies from his seven associates.

"No old programs are sacred," he said of the 1954 Presidents' Agreement, which 17 years ago limited Ivy football schedules to nine games. "Change and new ideas are very important."

He added that, as the vote showed, "this was just the wrong year to hope for a change."

Immediate comment from Princeton President Robert F Goheen on his reasons for opposing a tenth game could not be obtained because of his absence this week from the University campus. A spokesman in his office said that "he is not believed to be unalterably opposed, but felt the need for more persuasive financial figures supporting a tenth game before voting in favor of it."

One effect of the vote to retain status quo may be quite ironic: with virtually all other eastern teams playing ten and in some cases 11-game schedules, the Ivies may have considerable difficulty finding opponents with which they can even plan scrimmages. At the same time, it will become increasingly difficult to book additional opponents on a formal basis. Dr. Kemeny's proposal was made with the thought in mind that a tenth game could possibly be added by 1972, but with its rejection now, eventual solution becomes even more complex.

showing is more respectable, .753 to .646 for the seven teams it has played so far. The Tigers are averaging 70 points a game, as they did last winter on a season-long basis, but are in trouble because of the wide variance in defensive play.

Taylor is the scoring leader with 115 points in six games for a 19.2 average, a figure that jumps to 23 per game if you toss out the 30 seconds he played against NYR before limping off the court with a bad ankle. Manakas has 113 in seven games for 16.1, while Sickler is also in double figures with 12.7.

SEASON OPENS

For PDS Basketball Team. It will be up against some tough competition at the outset, but the Princeton Day basketball team does not expect to match last year's unfortunate feat of losing its first 11 games. The Panthers ended 3-13 on the year, winning their last three out of five, and that is the part they hope to continue.

Coach Chan Jones feels he has a stronger team this year, with a couple of surprise players holstering last year's returnees. Height as usual, is lacking, but the Panthers hope to make up for it with speed and a pressing defense.

Co-captain Carl Jacobelli at center is the tallest man on the starting team at 6'1. He'll need rebounding help if the Panthers are to stay in games against taller teams. Tony Dale, the other co-captain will hold down a guard spot, and Dave Claghorn will start at forward.

Teaming with Dale in the backcourt will be senior Dave Seckel, who has come along well this year. The lone underclassman on the starting five will be sophomore Mark Ellsworth at the other forward spot. He has been the most consistent point producer for the Panthers in three preseason scrimmages.

Two other returnees from last year, Carl Rosenburg and Keith Bash plus senior Joe Puma will give Jones the ability to shuffle his players in and out when needed, something he has not been able to do easily in the past. Ted Vogt, at 6'4 and Andy Houston round out the squad.

This week the Panthers are playing in the South Brunswick Invitational Tournament, a two-day event which began Tuesday. In addition to South Brunswick, Hunterdon Central and Roselle Park were entered. All teams except PDS had played at least three games.

Wednesday, January 6, PDS will play Solebury School away, and meet Germantown Friends at home Friday, January 8.

HOPEWELL VALLEY BOWS

To PDS Maimen. The Princeton High School wrestling team won its second meet in three starts last week when it captured eight of 12 bouts to defeat Hopewell Valley High School, 30-14.

Co-captains Dave MacDonald and Leon Costa scored pins for the Little Tigers, as did Landon Rossi. Rossi now has pins in all three of his heavyweight matches.

Costa, wrestling for the first time, moved up to the 149 pound class but has had trouble making the weight. MacDonald, 115 pounder, won his second match with a fall in the third period.

Winning decisions for the visiting Little Tigers were Andy Foltuny, Joe Moffo, Howie Heiner, Pete Hague and Larry Ritchie. Moffo filled in for the vacationing Chris Cassard in the 130 pound match. He had a nice decision," said coach Tom Murray.

Princeton's Tim Cook, substituting for vacationing John Hodges at 168 pounds, was leading 9-3 but was pinned in the last period. Losing decisions for PHS were Phil Thesole, Lawrence Parker and Tom Evans. Evans, 123 pounder, dropped his second close match, losing this time, 2-1.

PHS SKATERS VICTIM

Of Scoring Spurt. In Princeton H gh School's hockey game with visiting Brick Township last week at the Princeton Day School rink, the first period ended, 1-0, Brick. The final period was scoreless and so was most of the second.

But during a two-minute span in the second period, Brick scored one goal right after another," commented coach Eugene Doherty. Four, in fact and Brick ended with a 5-1 triumph. PHS is 0-2.

GETS PIN IN 1st MATCH: Leon Costa scored a pin against Hopewell Valley in his first match of the season. He is coceptain of the PHS wrestling team.

Mark Richards accounted for Princeton's lone goal, while Steve Sanford excelled on defense. Brooks Mohrman played another fine game in the goal, said Doherty.

Doherty reported that he plans to get in some needed practice during the holiday break. "We need a little more experience, a little more togetherness," he said. "We could also use a little work on our defense, although it wasn't that bad. We just didn't get the shots."

Bushnell Cup Awarded

Jim Chasey, Dartmouth quarterback, and Ed Marinaro, Cornell's All American halfback, are joint recipients of the Asa S. Bushnell Cup, given this year for the first time to the Ivy League's football Player of the Year. Bushnell, long time Princeton resident, retired last summer after more than 30 years as Commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Chasey, who directed Dartmouth to an undefeated season, completed 80 of 139 passes for 1001 yards and six touchdowns and ran for 151 yards and five TDs. Marinaro, a junior, has gained more yards per game in each of his two varsity seasons than any other college back in the country. His 1,014 yards in seven Ivy games last season is a league record.

FUND GOAL IS SET

By Youth Tennis Foundation

The Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton has set a fund raising goal of close to $5,000 for 1971 to enable it to continue its various programs.

Its growing scholarship program, which has reached more than 154 students, places those who cannot afford the fees in regular paid sessions. The emphasis has been on third and fourth graders. Each year the former scholarship players are continued and a new group of third and fourth graders added. Now in its third year, the program cost more than $3,200 to run last year.

The committee also feels that funds are needed at the other end of the spectrum to provide intensive instruction for the most talented youngsters, regardless of their financial situation.

Another expense borne by the program is the provision of rackets and balls for those who cannot afford them. Until the foundation could assume this responsibility used rackets were re-strung at no cost by Bayard Jordan. Funds are now provided to buy the strings for Jordan, but he still makes no charge for the labor involved.

The formal campaign for funds will begin late in January. In the meantime, donations are being received to finance the scholarships for the winter indoor program. These should be sent to L. V. Silvester Jr., treasurer, Youth Tennis Foundation, c-o Princeton Bank and Trust Co., Princeton.

Mrs. Simeon Hutner is president of the Foundation. Other members of the board are: Fran Austin, Mrs. John McCarthy Jr., James Fitzpatrick and Silvester.

BOWLING NOTES

Fowler Rolls 245. Two reasons why Grover Lumber is in first place in the Nassau League are Buddy Fowler and Vince Tufano.

In the only league action at the Princeton Recreation Lanes during the holiday week, Fowler rolled a 245 and Tufano, 240. Joe Pirone of Hinkson's had a 234.

Others: Bill Whatley, 213; Jim Shely, 212; Ed Roucotsky, 211; Santo Tocco, 209; Dick Traegler, 202 and Hank Wilson, 201.

ALBERS WORK ON VIEW

At Art Museum. A major exhibition of the works of Josef Albers — one of the original Bauhaus artists and an important figure in geometric painting — will open Monday at the Art Museum of Princeton University.

To run through January 25, it will be "the largest and most serious Albers show" in 15 years according to Professor of Art and Archaeology Sam Hunter who has organized the exhibition with the assistance of graduate students in a seminar he teaches. More than 100 works including both paintings and graphics, will be shown.

Albers himself, now 82 and living in Connecticut, has loaned works for the show as have a number of institutions and private collectors. The exhibit will span the German-born artist's career, from his pre-Bauhaus days,

TENNIS PRO CITED: Bayard Jordan, well-known tennis professional, has been recognized by the Youth Tennis Foundation for his many years o fservice to the youth of Princeton.

through his work at that immensely influential school of design Walter Gropius founded in 1919, to his time here in the U.S., first at Black Mountain College, North Carolina in the 1930's, and subsequently at Yale University. Now officially retired, he continues to paint at what Professor Hunter finds "his highest level."

A man who helped revolutionize the teaching of art and design in the U.S., Albers left Germany in 1933 when the Nazis came into power. He looms large in the post-war flowering of American art, particularly in the originality he brought to geometric painting — a movement called "the direct heir of Cubism," whose best known proponent perhaps was Piet Mondrian.

Rare Glass Paintings. Of particular interest in the exhibition are rare glass paintings which Albers did while he was Master at the Bauhaus in the 1920's, and some of his prophetic furniture design from that era.

The Bauhaus at Weimar, to which the architect Gropius brought artists and architects, was to become the center of modern developments in functional design. Albers taught the preparatory course at the Bauhaus for 10 years; during this period every new student was exposed to his functional, Constructivist ideas.

Professor Hunter, who is organizing the show, has had wide experience as a museum curator and director before joining the Princeton faculty. He served as Director of the Poses Institute of Art, Brandeis University, and of the Jewish Museum, New York City. He is also the author of books, articles and catalogues on many aspects of 20th century art. At Princeton, he teaches undergraduate and graduate courses on various aspects of modern art.

The University's Art Museum is open to the public free of charge Tuesday through Saturday from 10 to 4 and Sundays from 2 to 4.

householders for some time with the usual fumes and noise generated by garages.

Suburban Transit informed Township Mayor John D. Wallace this week that it will move its main garage to a location in the Hightstown Twin Rivers area and will no longer need the massive operation on John Street.

How about letting us buy the Township Garage on Valley Road? asks Suburban. The company will need room for only eight or ten buses now and will no longer have extensive washing, body-work and paint operations in its Princeton shops.

The Township, in turn, could take over the big Tiger garage for snow plows, road maintenance vehicles and the like. Mayor Wallace said at Committee's year-end meeting Monday afternoon that the Township is "interested" and will explore the question.

Earlier, at a press conference last week, Mayor Wallace suggested that the big Tiger garage might be shared by the Township and the Princeton Regional Schools.

Originally, Tiger asked the schools if they'd like to buy the building, but Tiger's $300,000 price tag was too big. The company also talked with the University about acquiring some land, but later decided it would be unwise to invest in a building on leased land.

As an alternative to the Township garage, the bus company is interested in "three to five acres" across Route 206 from the garage. This land, however, was bought with open space funds and it would be a legal tangle to sell the land, Committeemen pointed out.

EARLY CLOSING SET

For Township Offices. Offices in all Princeton Township departments will close this Thursday at noon.

Those wishing to pay taxes or transact other financial matters should do so by 10 a.m., when all departments will close their 1970 accounts. Tax payments may be made at the tax office located in the Opinion Research building, corner of Harrison Street and Terhune Road.

WHEN IS PRIMARY?

Maybe September. Late census certification may mean that New Jersey's primary elections won't be held until September. They've been held in June in recent years.

The state's Apportionment Commission announced last week that New Jersey, because its such a populous state, will be among the last to receive certified 1970 census figures. This will delay setting up new legislative districts for 1971 elections.

Figures probably won't be available until late January according to State Senators

Birth of Christ as an historical event that has determined the calendar of the whole Western world? Why upset the Semites by requiring our letters, magazines and newspapers to be dated in this way? Why not use several schemes simultaneously — Chinese, Jewish, etc. — or refuse to date anything at all?

What about the Christmas postage stamp? Or "In God We Trust" on our coins (Don't think for one moment anything other than the Christian God is meant!)?

What a bore and injustice American Industry perpetuates by shutting down on Sunday (a day set aside to honor Christ's resurrection) or December 25th! And there is that Christmas tree on the White House lawn — a building and property that belong to ALL the American people of all faiths, even those with no faith at all!

What about oaths sworn on the Bible — the Christian Bible at that? And the Christian carols sung by the Princeton High School Choir at Christmas time! Moreover, let the purists take note that the changes of the liturgical colors of the altar cloths and antependia in the Christian churches are derived from the secular significance these colors have always had.

In view of the foregoing and of the "open, public 'executive' meeting of the Princeton Regional School Board" in Room 62, John Witherspoon School, on Tuesday, December 22 at 8 p.m., something was begun in this village this year that may make all the things for which Princeton has been famous abroad pale into insignificance. Let us remember that the first Christmas occurred in a village. But the celebration of its story through the ages with its sense of wonder and the appeal of its many international traditions for the minds of little children could begin to end here, depending upon the decision of the Regional School Board. "All the king's horses and all the king's men" will not be able to put Christmas together again.

But on second thought, suppose old Scrooge were to come into this twentieth century and read the last two issues of TOWN TOPICS, he would see, on the one hand, what Christmas with its symbols and central meaning has meant to the poor, the lonely, and the everlasting childhood within us all and, on the other hand, the fuzzy thinking of some minority groups. Let us guess in which direction he would be facing as he said "Humbug!"

PHS LOSES TO UNION

Quintet Beaten, 48-27. In the first round of the Summit Basketball Tournament, Princeton High School's controlled type of play worked, as it held Union to a six-to-five margin at the end of the first period.

Union (24) managed to learn to live with the Little Tigers' style, however. It outscored them 12 to 3 in the third period and went on to win easily, 48-27. Bill Evers with 13 points accounted for half of Princeton's output.

As a result, PHS was to face the loser of the Summit-Berkley Heights contest in Wednesday's consolation round. Coach Larry Ivan's squad, now 1-5, will resume its regular schedule Tuesday when it travels to Montgomery High School.

IS 1971 BRIGHTER?

Tiger Skaters Hope So. Without a victory in eight games played this month, Princeton's downtrodden hockey team hopes that 1971 will bring a turn in its ill fortune.

The immediate future, however, carries little hint of brighter days: a strong Clarkson sextet will be in Baker Rink Saturday night at 8 and Monday will find the Tigers on the road to play Boston University. Clarkson, which is virtually an all Canadian team, and B U are two of the east's best.

Defeats nos. seven and eight came early this week in a two day tournament at St. Louis. Wisconsin blasted the Orange and Black, 9 to 0, in the opening round and St. Louis proved an unfriendly host the following night when it trounced the Tigers, 6 to 2. Most thorough proof of their troubles comes in the eight game statistics, which show they have scored only 20 goals while yielding 50.

HUN TOURNEY VICTIM

Loses to Pemberton. For the second year in a row, Hun will not be in the final round of the Hightstown Invitational basketball tournament. It lost its first game Tuesday night to Pemberton, 66-52.

Dirk Whitehead, 19 points, Lee Van Horn, 12, and Alan Chabfoux, 11, did virtually all the scoring for Hun. Pemberton's win was its first in four starts.

Following Wednesday's consolation game against Hightstown, Hun will resume league action next Wednesday when it entertains St. Anthony High School at 3:30.

ROSSI IS STOPPED

In Wrestling Finals. Princeton High School placed five men in the semi-final round of the eight-school Lower Moreland Invitational wrestling tournament Tuesday in Pennsylvania.

Four of them - Andy Foltiny, Dave MacDonald, Larry Ritchey and Lawrence Park er - all lost, but LouJohn Rossi, the Little Tigers' undefeated heavyweight, advanced to the finals. There he lost an epic, 17-10, battle to a boy from New York who has never been defeated in dual meet competition. "One was as strong as the other and neither could pin the other," PHS coach Tom Murray said.

As a team, PHS tied Bayport, Long Island, for last place. "I'm disappointed. We didn't do as well as I thought we would. Some didn't wrestle as well as their ability," Murray commented.

Council Rock won the all day event which offered 13 hours of continuous wrestling before it was over. The last time PHS was in the tourney, it finished third.

Year Ending Was One of Change for Princeton Area Churches

Churches experimented a great deal during 1970. Some adopted two worship services on Sunday mornings. Others began church school in duplicate sessions at 9 and 11.

St. Andrew's introduced its new format – family worship service at 10, followed by "Church Academic" with classes for all ages from 2 through adults. And Trinity Episcopal Church did the same, only at an earlier hour.

The Unitarian Church developed a new curriculum services "Man the Culture Builder" which introduced children ages 10 and 11 to the diversity of cultures within the human community. And First Presbyterian Church introduced Sunday brunches for families attending the 11 a.m. service; as well as a new perspective on its teen program, including Koinonia breakfasts at 6 a.m.

All Saints' Chapel observed its 10th anniversary on September 20, and began discussions with its sponsoring church, Trinity, toward becoming an independent church in the spring of 1971.

New Rabbi Here. Princeton Jewish Center welcomed a new rabbi, Hershel Matt, formerly of Temple Neve Shalom, Metuchen; First Presbyterian Church lost its young associate minister, the Rev. Elliot A. Daley, to the "Same Street" show on television, and the Rev. Joseph S. Harrison joined the staff at Trinity.

The Rev. Robert L. Cope of the Unitarian Church served as head of the Princeton Pastors' Association during '70 and scheduled a special service at Borough Hall during the IDA tension. The Rev. Robert Martin, associate director of the Fund for Theological Education, chaired the Inter faith Council, and a new organization, the Trenton Associ ation of Priests, held its first meetings at St. Paul's.

A new role "Minister to Youth," was created by the Presbyterian Commission, representing the three Presbyterian churches in Princeton. The Rev. William Kight was given the job a d Princeton organizations helped fund it.

And Vic Jameson of 210 Varsity Avenue wrote the booklet, "What Does God Require of Us Now?", which will be studied by 26 million Americans as they work for a united church. The book was commissioned by the Consultation on Church Union, headquartered at 228 Alexander Street.

News of The CHURCHES

PASTOR TO LEAVE

Going to Haddonfield. The Rev. John C. Pfisterer, who four and a half years ago started the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in West Windsor, has accepted a call to the Church of Our Savior, Haddonfield, where he will serve as associate minister. A farewell reception for the Rev. Mr. Pfisterer and his family will be held this Sunday after the 10 a.m. service in the Maurice Hawk School.

He and his wife Sue came to West Windsor in the summer of 1966, organized a congregation and held their first service in the Maurice Hawk School on October 9 of that year. The mission purchased a parsonage and a tract of land on Hightstown Road and on April 21, 1968, was officially welcomed into the Lutheran Church in America by the Rev. Dr. Edwin Knudton, the president of the New Jersey Synod.

The Rev. Mr. Pfisterer is a graduate of Wagner College, Staten Island, and the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia. Before coming to West Windsor he served a church in California.

DR. CROW TO SPEAK

On Church Union. The Rev. Dr. Paul A. Crow Jr., general secretary of the Consultation on Church Union, will address the general meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Princeton United Methodist Church at 8 p.m. next Thursday, January 7.

Dr. Crow will discuss the plan of union now under consideration by nine Protestant denominations. The meeting is open to the public.

Mrs. Arthur L. Benson, WSCS president, will lead a brief business meeting. Members of Slinger Irven Circle are the hostesses.

POPULATION IS TOPIC

Of Breakfast Club Session. Ian R. Walker, executive director of the Stoneybrook-Millstone Watersheds Association, will speak at the Men's Breakfast Club of Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church this Sunday. His topic is "An Optimum Population for New Jersey."

His talk will be given at 8:30 a.m. in the faculty dining room at Rider College, Van Cleve Drive. Mr. Walker, a geologist, is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and has a Ph.D. degree from the University of South Dakota. He has been with the Soil Conservation Service since 1966.

INFORMAL TALKS SET

On German Reformation. Professor Ernest Schwiebert, co founder of the American Society for Reformation Research, will give a series of talks at the Lutheran Church of the Messiah, beginning this Sunday. He will speak from 10:10 to 11 a.m., between services, on four consecutive Sundays.

Due to Professor Schwiebert's efforts in 1959, some 750,000 pages of rare Reformation materials have been put on microfilm by European teams he organized in Germany and Switzerland. The film is now stored in St. Louis.

"Too often this period of history has been over-simplified," according to the Rev. Luther Krieball, pastor of Messiah Lutheran. "The movement has been judged almost exclusively by 20th Century perspectives. We have read our modern views into the age. This means that in reality history is read backwards.

"An actual study of 16th Century sources reveals that Martin Luther was a man whom even few Lutherans know today. The role of the University of Wittenberg in the Reformation, which was the very core and center of the movement, presents an aspect which is practically unknown."

Professor Schwiebert's first two talks aim to present the "Human Side of the German Reformation," involving his hearers into the environment in which the Luther and his family lived. The series continues with two talks on the results of Roman Catholic and Protestant historians' recent study of the Reformation.

"Some 250 books have come from Catholic presses since the Second World War, many of which are soul-searching and important," the Rev. Mr. Krieball wrote in the "Messiah Messenger." "In this the Protestants and Jesuits seem to be linking the laed. Many Catholic scholars of rank and stature frankly admit they bungled the job in the hand ling of Luther's heresy and excommunication Now, after 450 years, they ask: What can be done to rectify the harm that was done to Chris tendom?

"If we regard the two groups (in the 16th Century) as Conservatives and Progressives rather than Catholics and Lutherans, we hgin to see why the Reformation becomes quite relevant to the issues within all the Christian Churches today."

BULLETIN NOTES

Dr. Evelyn Thompson, assistant pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, will lead the 10 a.m. worship service this Sunday. Her sermon title is, "Leftvers For The New Year."

The Christian Science Church will have services at 11 a.m and 8:15 p.m. on Sunday. The Lesson Sermon is titled "God."

Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church will hold worship services at 9:30 and 11. Led by the Rev. James S. Weaver. Church School is at 9:30.

Richard J. Coffee and Raymond H. Bateman. Mr. Coffee and Mr. Bateman said they'd hoped to get final tallies by mid-January.

For a primary to be held in June, new districts to be held to be drawn up and certified by April, and that may not be possible, the senators said.

Mathemetica, the Princeton computer company, has been retained by the Apportionment Commission to help in setting up the new districts.

CRASH! THUNK! RANG!

Snow, Ice Trigger Accidents. The season's first snowfall last week triggered o rash of skidding accidents, especially in the Township.

In one of six such mishaps on Wednesday, Robert Healey, 21, 82 Jefferson Road skidded off treacherous Route 206 near Cherry Valley Road and snapped a Public Service pole. The impact hurled him 20 feet from his station wagon into the center of the roadway.

He was admitted to Princeton Hospital for severe lacerations of the scalp and forehead and torn cartilage and ligaments of the leg. The only thing he remembered, he told Pfl. Frank Boceanfuso, was leaving the building where he worked and entering 206 from Princeton Airport drive.

Fred J. Gaeke, 45, Port Mercer Road, leveled three posts and tore up 53 feet of fence on Bunker Road after he veered right and was caught in ruts of snow, sending his car into a field. Willie Johnson, 22, of Bethlehem, Pa., skided through a split rail fence on the Great Road near Winfield Drive and went down an embankment. His stake truck damaged 20 feet of fence.

Maryann Mamo, 17, of Divetry Road, Hopewell Township, damaged the complete front end of her small car when she skidded on Cherry Hill Road near Ridgeview and struck a pole. At 10:30 that morning, Helga R. Seibel, 33, of Trenton, hit a hydrant when her car skidded off Princeton Kingston Road near Riverside.

Parking Lot Mayhem. Joyce L. Herzog, 44, 40 Linwood Circle, had the dubious distinction of striking three cars and left side of his car were damaged. There were no charges.

In the Borough, Kevin P. Ryan, 30, of Parsippany, refused medical attention for a two-inch laceration of the chin received when his car struck a pole on Cleveland Lane near Elm Road.

The impact of Mr. Ryan's skidding car cracked the pole and knocked an electric wire to the ground. He told Sgt. John J. Bellow that he began to skid while rounding a curve on Cleveland.

WATCHES STOLEN

From Edwards Jewelers. About a dozen inexpensive watches were stolen last week from a display window at Edwards Jewelers in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Mail carrier James Valis called Township police at 7 last Wednesday morning to report a pane of glass broken. Police said that the thief left a 12-inch hole in the window. Owner Edward Dunsker of Somerville was to give police a complete list of the watches taken.

Township police also report malicious damage to a car parked in the Shopping Center, owned by Public Service.

The driver, Edward Rose, told police Monday morning that a beer bottle had been thrown through the car's left rear window. Police found the partially-filled bottle lying on the rear seat of the car. Pfl. Michael Koplinner investigated.

THREE YOUTHS CHARGED

For Drug Possession on Campus. Three Borough residents have been charged with possession of narcotic drugs by Borough police.

Released in $100 bail each, set by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr., are Thomas A. Parker, 18, 27 Leigh Avenue; Terry R. Cunningham, 20, 100½ Leigh; and Gordan B. Wilson, 18, Canal Road. They have also been charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old Township youth who was arrested with them and later released. Hearing in Borough Court has been set for next Wednesday.

All were apprehended by Princeton University police Saturday evening in 1879 Hall. University officials have charged them with trespassing. Pfl. James Agins of the Borough issued the drug charge.

CAR HITS GAS PUMP

Driver Is Charged. Four persons escaped injury when the Volkswagen Microbus in which they were riding went out of control on a curve on Route 206 at 1:08 Wednesday morning, struck a service station pump and turned over.

Pfl. John Hammond charged the driver, William S. Sayen, 20, of the Great Road, with careless driving. One of his four passengers, Paul Seiler, 21, West Church Road, Lawrenceville, was treated at Princeton Hospital for extreme contusions of the left thumb. Thomas Coursen, 20, Princeton – Kingston Road; George Kelleher, 21, 176 Parkside Drive; and Kathleen M. Carroll, 19, of Trenton escaped injury.

After going out of control, the Microbus demolished a wooden fence between Pete and Mike's and Stefanelli's, two service station's on lower Bayard Lane, struck a pump at Stefanelli's and flipped over in its side. Damage to the vehicle was extensive.

SIX ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Six Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough Court by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr.

Sigurd Nilsen, 72, Washington Avenue, Griggstown, was fined $15 for failing to yield to a pedestrian, the same amount Joseph C. Huber Jr., 20, of 157 Franklin Corner Road, Lawrence Townshpi, paid for careless driving. Speeding cost Rocco Procaccini, 19, of R.R. 1, $20.

Paying $12 each were Jacqueline D. Coogan, 64, 381 Mercer Street, stop sign, and Teresita L. Salcedo, 37, 95 Spruce Street, red light. In criminal court, Jeffrey W. Kerr, 19, 10 Pin Oak Drive, Lawrence Township, was fined $25. He pleaded guilty to a charge by Pfl. David Lewis of having a bottle of alcohol

The previous week in Borough court, Frank P. Rossi, 18, 28 Pierson Avenue, paid $205 for driving while on a revoked list.

Edward Palutis, 43, 519 Ewing Street, paid $28 for speeding; Judson Carter, 151 John Street, $15, for failing to set hand brake properly; and Graham L. Gross, 28, 404-B Devereux Avenue, $12, wrong way on a one-way street.

BIRTHS

Fifteen Born. Seven girls and eight boys were born last week in Princeton Hospital. Two children were born on Christmas Eve and four on Christmas Day.

Girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. C. Monroe Allison, 115 Morrison Avenue, Hightstown, December 20; Mr. and Mrs. James Roberts, 222-C Harrison Street, December 21; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lippman, 5 Cypress Court, Hightstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Christopher, 103 Princeton Arms, North, Cranbury, both on December 22; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Melillo, 123 Francis Avenue, Trenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coccioldlo, J 14 Windsor Castle Apartments, Cranbury, both on December 24; Mr. and Mrs. George Levy, 53 Garden View Terrace, Hightstown, December 25.

Boys were born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kelly, 62 River Drive, Titusville, December 20; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dzoba, 1474 Huron Road, N Brunswick, December 21; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schlessinger, 38 Covington Drive, Hightstown, December 23; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harrod, 518 River side Avenue, Trenton; Mr and Mrs. Frederick Strom, 192 Applegate Drive, Hamilton Square, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Rose, 39 Lakewood Rd., New Egypt, all on December 25; Mr and Mrs. Ronald Smith, Bogatz Colonys, Hightstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones, D 8 Lawrence Court, both on December 26.

WEISS IS NAMED

To Head Heart Fund Here. Irwin Weiss, a retired public school teacher and currently assistant track coach at Princeton University, has been chairman of the Heart Fund Drive for the Borough and Township. Dr. Paul Chesebro, director of the Mercer County Drive, has announced.

In accepting the volunteer post, Mr. Weiss commented, "I am hopeful that we will again have the support of 300 volunteer collectors to canvass the people in Princeton who have given generously to the Heart Association in the past. Without their help the Association cannot implement its three-pronged program of research, education and community service at local, county, state and national level."

The fund drive is scheduled to be held through February.

"THIS IS NO HOLDUP"

"Just Cash My Check." Herbert L. Horowitz tried to cash a $40 check Monday at the New Jersey National Bank branch near the Brunswick Circle in Trenton and wound up surrounded by police as a suspected bank robber.

It all happened because of someone's warped sense of humor. Just as Mr. Horowitz, who lives at 14 Jeffrey Lane, Princeton Junction, stepped up to the woman cashier, she got a telephone call instructing her "to give $2,500 to the man in front of your window. He's got a gun."

To Mr. Horowitz' surprise, he suddenly found stack after stack of bills being pushed at him when all he wanted was $40. Within moments, his amazement at the developments increased when police grabbed him, one pointed a shotgun at him and another frisked him for the gun he was supposed to have.

The cashier had pressed a hidden alarm signifying a holdup, the police arrived in jig time, but in due course agreed that Mr. Horowitz was neither armed nor a potential bank robber.

BICENTENNIAL IS TOPIC

For Sons of Revolution. The 195th anniversary of the Battle of Princeton will be observed by the Princeton Chapter, The Society Sons of the Revolution in the State of New Jersey at the annual meeting beginning at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the Peacock Inn.

Plans for improvements to the Princeton battlefield, in preparation for the 1976 Bicentennial, will be discussed by David Poinsett, supervisor of historic sites in the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection. Lt. Col. Frederick M. English, president, will preside over the election of officers for 1971.

COURT'S VOTE RULING

Poses Problems for State. The middle course adopted by the U.S. Supreme Court, allowing 18, 19 and 20 year olds to vote for candidates for national office, but not state or municipal, has left New Jersey and other states with a few problems of implementation.

Fortunately the state has an extra year to solve the problem, because there are no national candidates on the 1971 ballot. In 1972, however, local, state and national candidates will all be up before the voters.

Different ballots will be required for youths using absentee or military ballots, or paper ballots in the six counties that do not use machines.

When the song of the angel is stilled,
When the star in the sky is gone,
When the kings and princes are home,
When the Shepherds are back with their flock,
The work of Christmas begins:
To find the lost,
To heal the broken,
To feed the hungry,
To release the prisoner,
To rebuild the nations,
To bring peace among brothers,
To make music in the heart . . .

FLORIDA
...where we've found the place for you to benefit as you play!
Most Florida land owners benefit, but without ever seeing their land, much less enjoying it. Not so with the 10,000 persons now living at Lehigh Acres... and more moving in every week. They're living in their investment and enjoying all the advantages of country life, urban style. Lehigh Acres offers such city advantages as an elementary school, churches, shops, bank, police and fire departments, post office, even a 50-bed hospital. Plus fishing, golf, boating, right in Lehigh Acres' great indoor-outdoor living in near-perfect weather. And all this just 12 miles from Ft. Myers.

Aptly appointed one and one third acres, this ten-raam Calanial with its terroce paal and patia is a nateworthy new listing. The roam-size, slate-floared entrance fayer affords access to an anulent step-down living raam with decoraus white marble faced fireplace and French doors apening to terrace. The gracious and commodious dining raam accamadates both many guests and large furniture, its French doors also open to the terrace. The casual den, which is near the frant entrance has a small fireplace which emits traditional warmth and canviviality; the "Queen-Size" kitchen has abundant starage and adjoining bright breakfast area.
The upper floor is served by main and auxiliary stairs and contains five bedrooms and three baths; master bedroam suite is separate and has a fireplace. Nat ta be overlacked is the panelled game room, also with a fireplace; the room-size cedar claset; and the Sylvan Paal which is in the rear court. $120,000

IDEAL COMMUTING . . . located on a quiet cul-de-sac only minutes from Princeton Junction, this charming one-story home has foyer, spacious living room, separate dining room, large family room, kitchen with breakfast space, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths and powder room. $48,500

MONTGOMERY PARK . . . Only 5 minutes away, this wooded area, with its winding streets and beautiful homes, has become recognized as one of the most desirable neighborhoods in the Princeton vicinity. Playmates abound, of course, and the streets are safe for hikes. The house has a spacious foyer with wall-to-wall carpet, a carpeted living room with fireplace, separate dining room, paneled family room with door leading to a wooden deck, big kitchen with plenty of eating space, powder room, laundry and walk-in pantry. Upstairs, carpeted master bedroom & bath, 3 more bedrooms and bath. $56,500

SHADY BROOK . . . A spacious 5-bedroom home, with many fine shade trees, a beautiful lawn and very attractive shrubbery, invites your immediate attention. Central air-conditioning! Living room with fireplace, dining room, large kitchen, powder room, big recreation room; 5 bedrooms and 2 baths. A wonderful home in one of our best neighborhoods. $63,500

SIX BEDROOMS . . . and 3 baths! On a wooded lot in North Lawrence, this is an excellent house for a growing family. Foyer with slate floor, living room with fireplace, dining room, large kitchen, laundry, family room, den, 3 bedrooms and 2 baths are on the first floor. Second floor: 3 bedrooms, 1 bath. The Shakers, Quakers, and Pilgrims are alive and well at Cane Farm

"Less is more" said the 1930 modernists. "Amen", came the centuries-old answer of our earliest settlers. Their search for simplicity and truth gave us some of the finest examples of American design and craftsmanship. You can see — and buy — museum-quality re-creations of these fine pieces at Cane Farm Furniture.

For Example:

Sturdy little Shaker tripod table. Great for snackers, readers, smokers.

Only $49

To see more, write for our new brochure. It's free. Or come see us. We're not so far away at all.
